Lloyd George Jumped In Up Comes Golden Money Not Exactly Teetotal Zangwill Arrives

—By Arthur B-"-bane—

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

LLOYD GEORGE is off to Canada, most valuable jewel in the imperial crown of the British Empire. Apart from intellectual wealth, all the intrinsic wealth of the British Isles could be duplicated a dozen times over in Canada with greater ease.

CANADIANS, who sent 400,000 men across the ocean to fight for the King and their own safety under the mental leadership of Lloyd George, will welcome the great premier proudly.

Gone are the days when Lloyd George was hated by every Tory in England, and every Liberal with more than a thousand pounds a year. In that day a story, much applauded in London, ran thus:

"Tell us how you haved that poor chap from drowning.

"Why, I jumped in, swam out, turned him over to make sure it wasn't Lloyd George. Then I pulled him ashore."

Since that time Lloyd George has jumped in and pulled the British Empire ashore, just as it was drowning. Quite a change.

THE GOLDEN SUN of money rises, the old bloody sun of fighting royalty is setting. You know it when Stinnes and other great money men from Germany's ruling power, dredging the monarchists along behind them as a little tail to their kite. When money becomes absolute power, it may want royalty as a useful figurehead.

GONE ARE THE DAYS when Caesar condescended to take with him as humble follower the son of the richest man in Rome. And gone are the days when Theorpchemment went out and got himself killed, trying to be a hero.

GONE ARE THE DAYS when Jacques Coeur, doing a bigger business than all the other merchants of France put together, with his fleets scattered all over the seas, was proud to lend his money to the French king, to accept it in the end a heavy fine, disgrace and flight to Italy, whose great trading republic he had met and conquered in their own commercial battles on the seas.

ALL HIS POWER, money, services counted for nothing. That he had financed the fight that drove the English out of Normandy, when the nobles that had never done a day's work in their lives conspired against him.

TWO POPES, Nicholas IV, and Celistus III, recognizing his power and honesty, employed him after the French King Charles had imprisoned and robbed him on a false charge of poisoning his mistress, Agnes Sorrel.

YOU CANT treat big money kings in that way any longer. Instead of standing cap in hand in waiting rooms of the great, they sit in their large offices and the formerly great come hat in hand to see them.

And now, in Germany, the heavily bearded Stinnes, modern Jacques Coeur, allows the monarchist party of Germany to follow him, behind him, as he might good-naturedly let a little strange dog follow him in the street. He hath put down the mighty.

LLOYD GEORGE, asked, "Are you a teetotaler," replied, "A teetotal fool."

SEES GERMANY AS A MADHOUSE, ITS POLITICS AS A BRAINSTORM

NATION IN DEATH THROES

Politically, the Country Is in a Brainstorm; Makeshift Cabinet Not Likely to Last

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Universal Service Correspondent.

Berlin, Oct. 6.—Germany is an economic and financial madhouse, and politically is in a brainstorm.

More than half the German people are almost mad from fear of hunger, cold and the lack of clothing for the rapidly approaching Winter. Others seem politically and economically unsound, in that through selfishness or ignorance they are contributing to the ruin and downfall of all.

One feels that one is in a nation that is very near its death throes.

These were my first impressions of Germany on my return after a seven weeks' absence for a visit to America. There have been appalling changes for the worse, economically and politically, in those few weeks.

MISERY ON EVERY SIDE.

Misery cries from hundreds of holes in shoes and clothing on the ragged figures stalking the streets. Beggars have multiplied to an almost unbelieveable number in Berlin.

The parliamentary government system, which came in the republic, is on its last legs. Dr. Stresemann is making a last desperate effort to save the country from civil or military dictatorship to the exclusion of parliament, a direction in which Germany seems to be inevitably driving.

Even should Stresemann succeed in building another cabinet on a parliamentary foundation, there is little prospect that it will long weather the storm of popular indignation due to the high cost of living, low wages, lack of leadership and time-wasting debates of the politicians in the Reichstag.

The people have lost all confidence in the Reichstag, which is Germany's Congress.

All constructive measures are either paralyzed there by party bick-

5 HURT, 1 DYING IN S. B. EXPLOSION

Short Circuit Blast Shakes Andrew Square; Scores Narrowly Escape

Five men were burned, one probably fatally, when a heavily-charged electric cable of the Edison Illuminating Company flashed fire and caused a loud explosion in a trench near Andrew square, South Boston, yesterday afternoon.

Scores of men, women and children had narrow escapes from injury.

Charles Carson, fifty-three, of No. 229 Metropolitan avenue, Roslindale, was taken from the trench in which the cable was lying with his clothes aflame. He was badly burned about the face, hands and body. He is on the danger list at the City Hospital.

Francis Landrase, fifty, of No. 30 George street, Roxbury, was scorched on the face and suffered burns about the hands and legs, and J. F. Frorell, twenty-eight, of No. 74 Chelsea street, East Boston, working with him in the trench, was partly blinded and burned by the flash of flame.

Both were taken with Carson in the Edison Company automobile to the City Hospital, several blocks away.

Superintendent P. Haines of Dorchester of the Department of Maintenance of the Edison Company and Michael Morgandge of No. 117 George street, Roxbury, were stunned by the flash and given medical attention, after which they were sent to their homes.

WOMAN HAD MILLION SUICIDE REASONS

"I had a million reasons for committing suicide."

This was the explanation given police by Mrs. Alice Pierce of No. 50 Andrew street, Lynn, yesterday, after she had swallowed four poison tablets. The attempted suicide took place at the corner of Washington and Hanover streets and was witnessed by passersby.

Mrs. Pierce was sent to the Lynn Hospital, where her name is on the danger list. She declined to give any more specific reason for her act than the words quoted.

TWO FELONS END LIVES TO ESCAPE DEATH

7 IN STORMING PARTY

Enter Mess Hall of Kentucky Prison After Building Has Been Flooded With Fumes

Western Kentucky State Penitentiary, Oct. 6.—(A. P.)—Monte Walters, Lawrence Griffith and Harry Ferland, three convict murderers, were found dead, when attackers entered the barricaded mess hall here late today.

The gunmen were found dead on the second story of the mess hall when a storming party of seven men entered the building after it had been flooded with high proof ammonia.

Walters evidently had been killed by a bullet during the siege. Griffith and Ferland were dead from slatel bullet wounds through the heart, suggesting they had committed suicide to escape death from the ammonia.

AMMONIA IS USED.

A five minute hand grenade barrage, followed by the forcement of ammonia through special constructed pipes into the dining hall was loosed at 3:10 p. m.

Three ammonia pipe lines had been laid from the hospital to the dining hall.

The armor plate behind which men were working to construct the pipe lines fell over during the process of connecting the pipes and exposed the men to full view from the gunmen's Gibraltar, but they were not fired upon.

SCHOOLS CLOSED.

Public schools here had been ordered closed.

Many farmers and residents here walked the streets armed and are afraid to permit their children freedom of the streets.

Managers of hotels reported large offers for rooms by curious persons constantly pouring in to witness the "Battle of Eddyville."

Wife of Prison Mutineer Arrested

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 6.—Mrs. Lillian Walters, wife of Monte Walters, one of the three mutineers at Eddyville State penitentiary, was arrested today.

She recalled under gruelling questions, that she had cashed a check for $400 on the Prisoners' Aid Fund of the penitentiary in Paducah, September 14, and said she got the money for Will Sparks, a former convict.

Police held her on a charge of aiding and abetting prisoners to escape.

DESMOND DYING AFTER VISIT TO MYSTERY GIRL

"I Got Just What I Deserved," He Told Police When Taken Off Clothesline of Her Home

LUNG PIERCED BY HOOK

Name of Woman Kept Secret by Authorities by Pressure of Many Wealthy Citizens

Lawrence, Oct. 6—James J. Desmond, the longest established coal and wood dealer of this city and one of its most prominent citizens, is dying at the Stillwater Hospital in Methuen from stab wounds mysteriously received, the police say, in a love affair. He was taken to the hospital early today. Later the police were notified.

The 60-year-old coal dealer was found toda hanging on a clothes line hook between the second and third story apartments of a house at 372 Chestnut street. The hook had been inserted under the left ribs. It had pierced his lung.

The police theory is that Desmond while visiting a woman friend was set upon and stabbed by a male relative who thus hung the aged wooer on the hook to make it appear he had fallen from the veranda.

GOT WHAT I DESERVED.

"I got just what I deserved," Desmond is reported to have told the police before he lapsed into unconsciousness.

He told Miss Josephine O'Neil, a nurse at the hospital: "I was stabbed while I was leaving the apartment of a woman friend I had been visiting."

Great pressure was brought to bear on the police to keep the name of the woman Desmond was visiting secret. Her name is known to the police. But because of her family connections with some of the most highly respected and wealthiest of the citizens of Lawrence, the police aided in hushing details of the affair.

The result is an air of mystery thrown about the case which has set all Lawrence gossiping of the woman's identity.

Before the police closed up on the case it was learned that Desmond was a frequent visitor to the Chestnut street house. The elderly suitor was well known to the neighbors but outside of the few who has witnessed the comings and goings, the news of his plight came as a distinct shock.

VICTIM NOT MARRIED

Desmond was unmarried. The woman he is suspected by the police of visiting has several male relatives. When lifted down from the hook by neighbors attracted by his moans, Desmond, according to the police, gave evidence of having been using liquor.

Whether he became quarrelsome with one of these male relatives and was stabbed as a result of a quarrel, the police, because of his weakened condition, could not learn late today.

It is expected that by tomorrow Desmond may have recovered sufficiently from shock to tell the details of the assault to the police.

Miss Lloyd George Is 'Too Young to Wed'

Miss Megan Lloyd George

Charming Daughter of Ex-Premier Isn't Thinking of Love and Has Mind On Political Career

Rutland, Vt., Oct. 6.—Pretty, poised and "far too young now to think of a career," Miss Megan Lloyd George swept Vermont's hills with her lovely blue-gray eyes and gave her famous father a little ecstatic hug as the special train carried the ex-Premier North.

Dame Margaret, a trifle apart, her domesticated heart a trifle confused by all the noise and commotion of welcome parties, looked about in a bewildered fashion not confessed to "feeling a little dazed, but very happy," and having no place "except her husband's plans and a longing to sight-see."

PERFECTION IN DRESS.

The feminine figures of Lloyd George's party present a striking contrast—one of the conventional concept of an older generation, the other of the modern girl, confident, fair and young.

Miss Megan's costume and her conduct were superlatives. At twenty-one she has learned perfection in dress and in ease. She wore a black Eton suit, smartly becoming her dark small and rounded figure, [illegible] red duveteen collar and the red buttons of her white waistcoat lending a properly young and saucy air.

A black chiche hat hugged her small head, but not too closely to prevent the sight of her fine braid [illegible] head and her prettily arched brows and her gold-brown hair—which is not bobbed.

TOO YOUNG FOR MARRIAGE.

When photographers asked her to pose she did so willingly, as an accustomed performance, but remarked:

"It is the same in England, but not so bad as this."

Of a possible earcer she said:

"Oh, really, I think I am too young to think of that now. When I get a little older then I'll decide."

And as to marriage:

"Oh, much too young!" this with

EX-PREMIER, IN VERMONT, SAYS HE WILL VISIT BOSTON OCT. 31

5,000 Turn Out at Rutland, Where British Statesman Stops En Route to Canada

MEETS SON OF LINCOLN

Welshmen of Green Mountain State Gather to Cheer Their Fellow Countryman

Rutland, Vt., Oct. 6—It was definitely announced, on the arrival here today of the special train bearing David Lloyd George, that the former British premier will visit Boston on Wednesday, Oct. 31.

The Lloyd George special, made up of seven cars, arrived here shortly after four o'clock, on its way to Montreal. Dame George, his wife, and Miss Megan, his daughter, accompanied the British statesman.

The distinguished Englishman was greeted by a crowd of 5000 people who had gathered from all the surrounding country. He appeared on the observation platform of the rear car to response to the cheers. He was greeted by a delegation of former residents of his native town, Criccieth in Wales, who bore a banner reading:

"There are more of your constituents in this section than in any other part of the United States."

MEETS LINCOLN'S SON.

The former Premier spoke briefly. He said:

"The few brief words I have to say in this gigantic outpouring to greet me come from the bottom of my heart and serve to express the gratitude I feel for the honors and welcome that have been given me in your wonderful country.

"At the last stop made by our train (Manchester, Vt.) I had the honor of shaking the hand of the son of your martyred President, Abraham Lincoln, Robert Todd Lincoln has a Summer home at Manchester. I have always considered Abraham Lincoln one of the greatest leaders of mankind and one of the greatest statesmen the world has produced."

GETS MAPLE SUGAR.

Just before the train pulled out for the next stop at Burlington a little girl perched on the shoulders of her father thrust a small package of Vermont's delicacy, maple sugar, into the hands of the smiling ex-Premier.

Hundreds of Lloyd George's fellow countrymen were assembled long before the arrival of the train from Albany, and their greeting was anit by fellow reasons to be one of the most demonstrative accor[illegible] since his arrival in the United States.

A special delegation was headed by Rev. J. Jerry Jones, former pastor of Lloyd George's church at Festiniog, Wales. The delegation consisted of men and women who had come from Granville, N. Y., and Western Vermont.

The ex-Premier appeared moved by their enthusiastic welcome, and delivered an address from the platform of the train. He was hailed with prolonged cheers, tossing of hats and waving of handkerchiefs. The distinguished visitor received a rousing welcome at Ellen-

FLAMES SWEEP CHURCHILL HOME

Harlakenden House at Cornish, Wilson's Summer Capitol in 1917, Destroyed

Cornish, N. H., Oct. 6.—Harlakenden House, the summer residence of Winston Churchill, the author, was burned to the ground here today. The large brick mansion, valued at $120,000, was occupied by President Wilson in 1917 as a summer home.

The [illegible] broke out shortly after noon from a cause as yet not ascertained in a disposal cupola. The fire departments of Claremont and of Windsor, Vt., were called in, but lack of water supply hampered their efforts.

About 200 members of the Summer colony of authors here and citizens of the district formed a bucket brigade, the water being brought from the Connecticut river, about half a mile away.

Practically all the furniture in the house was saved by these volunteer workers, but by 4 o'clock the building was in ruins.

In Harlakenden House, Winston Churchill wrote several of his best known novels. The author and his family will occupy another residence here which Mr. Churchill owns.

U. S. WOMEN TOURISTS INJURED IN BRITAIN

London, Oct. 6.—Word was received here today of three American automobile tourists being injured in an accident in the Kirkwood Pass Lake district. A Mrs. Reid and Miss Reid were seriously injured and a Miss Barton slightly hurt.

BRITISH PRESS AT ODDS OVER RECEPTION TO LLOYD GEORGE

where his train drew into Union station shortly before noon. In an address delivered there during a brief stop, he gave considerable credit to Gov. Glynn, with whom he conferred in London before the settlement of the Irish question, for "clarification" of that subject.

"Gov. Glynn told me, very frankly," said Lloyd George, "how the Irish people view the feud of centuries and what they desired in the way of liberty and how the American people felt on the subject. I told him, equally frankly, what I believed to be the purpose of Great Britain.

"At the end of these interviews, he took my views to the Irish leaders and he brought their hopes and aspirations, clarified, to me. Out of this exchange sprung the new Ireland, the Irish Free State.

ENDED 700-YEAR STRUGGLE.

"The people of Albany, Governor Glynn's fellow townsmen, should feel highly honored because no man did more to bring about a settlement of the Irish question, no man did more to end the feud which existed for 700 years, than your distinguished fellow townsman, Martin H. Glynn.

"And I am glad to be in your city to bear testimony to the great help he brought me."

Thousands jammed the station and the adjacent streets hours before Lloyd George's train arrived.

'Ex-Premier Given Big Send-off at New York

New York, Oct. 6.—Still glowing with the warmth of his reception in Albany, David Lloyd George, ex-Premier of Great Britain, left here shortly before 9 a. m. for Canada, where he will make a number of speeches before returning to the United States later this month.

The ex-Premier was given a hearty sendoff from the thousands of commuters that thronged the Grand Central station at the time of his departure.

Lloyd George left New York on a special train running as a second section to the Empire State Express, the schedule calling for stops at Albany, Troy, Burlington and Rutland on this side of the border.

His train was made up of New York Central and Canadian National cars and in his immediate party were Governor Smith, ex-Governor Martin Glynn, Sir Henry Thornton, director of the Canadian Railways, and Mrs. Thornton, and other officers of the Canadian Railway system. The Americans in the party will leave the train at Rouses Point on the Canadian boundary.

"HECKLERS" IN AUTOS.

The first Canadian stop will be made at Montreal and from there the former Premier will inaugurate a tour of the dominion to thank Canadians for their supreme efforts during the war.

Seldom has New York accorded any foreign visitor the warmth of welcome that was extended to the little Welsh statesman. His twenty hours in the city were filled with cheers and expressions of good will.

The only untoward incident in connection with his visit here was the effort of radical Irish sympathizers to make known their dislike of him. They paraded the streets in automobiles with large placards and red fire telling the world of their aversion to the statesman who brought about the Free State.

TEN DAYS IN CANADA.

Eggs were even cast in his general direction at a theatre last night but the ex-Premier took no umbrage at these manifestations of unpopularity. He was used to such things, he said.

Lloyd George will spend ten days in Canada and then re-enter the United States through Minnesota inaugurating his American tour at Minneapolis. He will return to New York and sail for England early in November.

MISS LLOYD GEORGE STILL "TOO YOUNG"

a sly wink.

She added:

"But that's really different. Naturally I'm interested in politics, and if I do decide on a career it will be 'politics.'"

She loves to dance, adores her father and accompanies him on his public duties "merely as a companion." Smoking, for women, she disapproves, "though she couldn't possibly act as a judge about it."

Dame Margaret, gray haired, gray-eyed, a comfortable, motherly figure, dressed with taste becoming her type, confessed to being "not much use for an interview," then with her quiet voice with its Welsh flavor set to praising the fine scenery of Vermont."

It was her most distant journey from home, and she proved a good traveler, finding "charming people on board among Americans."

'CRAVING THE DRUG OF FAME,' SAYS ONE CRITIC

Tribute to ex-Premier, Comments Another, Is Given to the Man With the "Knockout Blow," One Who Never Lost Hope During the War

By ROBERT J. PREW
Universal Service Correspondent

London, Oct. 6.—The treatment the London newspapers today accord the reception of ex-Premier Lloyd George in New York is a striking evidence of the continuance of bitter prejudice against the statesman who was the national hero throughout the war days.

Thus, what some newspapers in their cable dispatches describe as the most remarkable welcome extended to a European figure by Americans in recent times, is dismissed by the Times in an eight-line message.

Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail is equally sparing of space.

On the other hand Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, although a frank critic of Lloyd George's policies, makes a big feature of yesterday's reception to the former prime minister. It regards the event as one of great interest to the British people, and prints a long cable dispatch under the headline, "Broadway Screams Itself Hoarse with Joy."

WORLD LOVES A FIGHTER.

Editorially, the Daily Express says:

"It is not so much Lloyd George, the politician, in whom Americans are interested, but Lloyd George, the man with the 'knockout blow,' the little man who never lost hope during the war. No matter how much people at home may disagree with his politics they will all agree that America's tribute to him is deserved, and that it is a compliment to Great Britain."

The Chronicle makes the news of the reception its leading feature. This morning's issue of the Telegraph also prints a detailed account of the welcome.

The Daily Graphic says editorially:

"The prodigious welcome given to Lloyd George in New York will do us no harm, because even in our most prejudiced, puritan moments, there is surely some lingering spark of gratitude within us to remind us that the despised of today were the idols of yesterday. Lloyd George is fortunate. Without waiting for vindication to come to him he travels across the Atlantic to find it himself."

CRAVES 'DRUG OF FAME."

The only openly sneering reference made to the eWishman's trip appears in the Morning Post which, in an editorial, denounces what it calls Lloyd George's perpetual craving for the drug of fame, and expresses satisfaction that he is no longer Premier. "For if he were, his travelling political agents, novelists and newspaper men might make Lilliput country look distinctly silly."

BERLIN A MADHOUSE, SAYS VON WIEGAND

crings or impractical experiments indulged in.

The democratic system forced upon Germany by President Wilson is in perilous danger of a complete collapse under the terrific pressure of Poincare on the one hand and disunion and political incapacity on the other.

FRENZIED FINANCE.

Frenzied finance is a mild term when applied to Germany today. Russia never saw anything like it. Prices in many instances are 50 to 100 per cent higher than the normal pre-war prices, while wages are less than three-quarters the pre-war normal.

Germany has now a floating debt of 40 quadrillion marks, and there has been an increase of 20 quadrillion in the last four days. Unemployment support consumes 143 trillion marks daily.

The marvellously organized German machine still rolls on amazingly by its own impetus, but it is beginning to deteriorate rapidly.

Our sleeper from Holland yesterday was attached to a freight train and reached Berlin 12 hours late. At the Hanover station restaurant hot water enough to make a cup of malted milk cost 15,000,000 marks. Coffe, rolls and eBrlin costs five cents more than in the Waldorf in New York.

SOME SAMPLE PRICES

Theatre tickets cost 250,000,000 to 500,000,000 marks, cigarettes 4,000,000 each, cigars 12,000,000 to 15,000,000, a box of matches 3,000,000, a loaf of bread 40,000,000 to 60,000,000, an egg 12,000,000 to 15,000,000, a pound of butter 200,000,000, a liter of milk 40,000,000 (an increase of 10,000,000 since yesterday), a pound of potatoes 2,000,000, a pound of coal 2,000,000, a pound of beef 50,000,000, a newspaper 6,000,000, street car fare 4,500,000, a pound of flour 22,000,000.

Setting the condition forth more glaringly and maddeningly for the thousands in misery, are the revels in order of the few who have made money from the catastrophe and who are seeking to get rid of it before it becomes more worthless. It seems like the death dance over the corpse of the nation.

As an example, the wage that a mail carrier gets for October is equivalent to $5, a railway engineer $7 and the superintendent of a railway $27.

Reichstag Excited as Stresemann Is Attacked

Berlin, Oct. 6 (AP).—The Reichstag assembled this afternoon in an excited mood, with all the public galleries filled. The proceedings opened with a motion by the Communists demanding cancellation of the decree in Saxony forbidding strikes, and the defence minister's decree imposing a censorship on newspapers.

Greeted by the Communists with such shouts as "Stinnes' Representative" and "Stinnes' Puppet," Chancellor Stresemann in presenting his newly reformed cabinet remarked he could assure the Communists Herr Stinnes had nothing to do with the formation of the government.

ASKS MORE POWER.

The chancellor declared the government was asking the Reichstag to relinquish its constitutional rights for some time and give the cabinet powers going much further than the cabinet ever had possessed.

The Chancellor then dealt with abandonment of reserve measures in the Ruhr, rebutting criticism of Nationalists that he had weakly given up the fight. The situation in the Ruhr, he declared, could not be brought out of the occupied regions by the resistance alone.

As the resistance weakened, the more difficult it became to utilize it diplomatically for Germany. The government's effort had been to find a formula enabling it to use the abandonment of passivity for political negotiations, but he added, "this task could not be effected, and undoubtedly suffered failure in this connection."

"POLITICAL STUPIDITY."

Referring to the speech of the British Foreign Secretary, Marquis Curzon, before the imperial conference in London, Dr. Stresemann remarked that every attempt by Germany to play one ally off against another would be political stupidity, and he declared the sole possibility of a solution of the reparation problem was through an agreement between the allies on one side and Germany on the other.

Replying to the interjection: "Then you can wait a long time," the chancellor asked his interrupter whether he believed the French would vacate the Ruhr if Germany came to an agreement with England alone.

The Chancellor said that if the government had thought that by continuing the resistance it could have achieved something advantageous to German freedom it would have continued it, but the country was in such a financial chaos that the day was near when the German mark would cease to be a means of payment not only abroad but in Germany.

"We were in the position of the commander of a fortress who has no more food," he said, "and under such circumstances to give up the fight is nothing of which a man need be ashamed."

"It has been said," he resumed, "that I should be placed before a state tribunal for abandoning passivity. I am ready to defend myself before any court for what I have done."

COAL MAGNATE OFFERS PLAN TO CRIPPLE UNIONS

Mechanicalization His Remedy to Check Mine and Rail Workers

New York, Oct. 6.—The surest avenue of escape from unionism for the coal and rail industries are mechanicalization and standardization to a point where the worker is left without individual responsibility, said Thomas A. Stroup, superintendent of the Utah Fuel Co. at Clear Creek, Utah, in a report to the American Institute of Mining & Metallurgical Engineers tonight.

Stroup declared unionism was irreconcilable with sound economic policies or stable and progressive social conditions.

He discussed "the political aspects of unionism and its fantastic dreams of empire," asserting both could be eliminated.

"The first steps in checking the spread of coal miners' unions and in restoring the industry to a sound position on labor will be to abolish the contract system," he said, "to mechanicalize the mines thoroughly; to standardize every operation down to the minutest detail, so that no responsibility of any kind can fall on the worker.

"Of the least of the crimes of the prevailing educational system, declared Stroup, "has been to teach the mystical equality of man."

Fifty per cent. of the nation's population is underdeveloped mentally, the report asserted, while probably 90 to 95 per cent. "is incapable of clear thinking or self-direction."

King's Mountain, N. C., Oct. 6.—Senator Royal S. Copeland, Democrat, of New York, at the celebration of the anniversary of the battle of King's Mountain today, called on President Coolidge to summon an immediate world economic conference.

Such a gathering to revive national and international business and restore sound prosperity, Senator Copeland asserted, is imperative if world disaster is to be averted. He emphasized the conference should not be limited to the major nations, but must include all.

The New York Senator made plain the proposed gathering should be absolutely free from politics. Recognizing the dominant sentiment is against American entrance into any association of nations or permanent political alliance with other nations, he said this ought not to be allowed to stand in the way of a purely business effort to cure the world's economic ills.

"My immediate appeal," he declared, "is for an attempt at economic agreement, regardless of political differences and intrigues." He continued:

"The most bitter opponent of the League of Nations cannot object to consideration of a plan for the economic rehabilitation of the world. The most ardent supporter of the League, after these years of deferred hope and endless disappointments, cannot object to a brief departure from the original program. It will be a period during which heated feelings may cool and engendered hatred may be buried.

"We are living in a fool's paradise. In certain lines in America we have prosperity, but the idleness of the world should warn us that our prosperity is likely to be transient."

nut street address and in the mother of two sons was questioned by the police to learn if she had heard any sounds of a quarrel.

She said she knew nothing of the affair until awakened by noise of the men who were lifting Desmond's body from the clothesline hook.

The response of the police to pressure from outside the department made it appear tonight as if the manner in which Desmond met his wounds would be pigeon-holed by the police as an unsolved mystery.

CENSORSHIP PUT ON PRINCESSES ILLNESS

London, Oct. 6.—The Italian government has ordered a strict censorship on all news of the illness of the Princesses Mafalda and Giovanna, according to the Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail.

The king resents discussion of the royal family's affairs by newspapers.

WALTON CALLS EXTRA SESSION

In Finish Fight With Legislature on His Demand for Law Aimed at Klan

Oklahoma City, Oct. 6 (AP).—A call for an extraordinary session of the State Legislature on October 11 "for the purpose of the enactment of a law to protect the people from masked and lawless marauders and secret organization" was issued tonight by Governor J. C. Walton.

Simultaneously a statement was made public by Aldrich Blake, executive counsellor, declaring "the Governor is ready" and that he is "ready to meet the Legislature."

The Governor's action was accepted as a challenge for a finish fight with members of the fourth term who have sought his impeachment, and his advisers made the effort to hide the fact that they were preparing for the attack.

TURK TROOPS BACK IN CONSTANTINOPLE

Constantinople, Oct. 6 (AP).—Turkish troops reentered Constantinople this afternoon after nearly four years of banishment.

Treading on flowers, Shukri Naili Pasha's famous iron brigade marched from Stamboul to Seraglia Park. All were veterans of the World War and the war with Greece.

Turkish Indes, veiled and unveiled, distributed bon bons and flowers on the streets. Immolated and a mofti offered prayer.

WAGERS STATE'S FUNDS ON RACES

Springfield, Oct. 6.—A State department scandaly was bared today when Jeremiah F. Kingston, inspector of motor vehicles in Springfield, was arrested this afternoon charged with the larceny of $10,000 from the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Kingston admits the theft of $8,000 and claims that he lost the whole amount playing the races and the stock market. He was arrested in a local Turkish bath, forced to dress and brought to his apartments at he Cudley hotel. He had $412 on his person when he was later searched at the police station.

J. F. Gillie, chief clerk of the Massachusetts department of motor vehicles preferred the charges against Kingston. He stated that he had checked up the books of the Springfield man and found a shortage of $10,035.

Kingston is quite prominent in local political circles and is said to be an intimate friend of Governor Cox. He is also well known among the sporting fraternity. He is known as a lavish spender and a "good fellow."

Police claim that his admitted thefts from the State department have been going on for over a year. It is said that he pocketed a whole day's receipts at a time.

Mr. Gillie stated today: "The arrest of Kingston automatically discharges him from the employ of the state. There will be a new man appointed to fill his position next Monday."

Kingston is held in $12,000 bail and a hearing of his case is set for next Monday in district court.

COMMUNIST PLOT TO WIN MILITANT RECRUITS IN BOSTON

APPEAL FOR 'REVOLUTION' IS SPURNED BY LABOR

Mrs. Glendower Evans Calls 'Red' Scheme Dream 'That Wouldn't Come True in 7000 Years'; Supt. Crowley Calls It an 'Appeal to the Most Ignorant'

Desperate efforts by Communists to gain a foothold in Boston, financed by funds contributed by unsuspecting Americans and foreign sources have been revealed.

This city has been made the target of a volley of printed propaganda, sent through the mails, advocating Bolshevism in America and revolution by violence, if necessary.

The aim of the senders of this propaganda is the avowed aim of the Communist party—to seize the industries, overthrow capitalism and establish a "dictatorship of the proletariat."

One of the party's "manifestos," calling for "militant" action, has come into the hands of the Boston Advertiser. Investigation revealed that many other such leaflets had been distributed in this city, chiefly among working men and women. The secrecy with which the Communists veil all their movements renders it impossible to ascertain the number of such circulars issued.

LAY BLAME ON "REDS."

This movement is launched in the face of recent charges brought against the Communist party by the United Mine Workers of America in connection with the coal strike. The mine workers charge that the Reds alone were responsible for the Herrin Massacre in Illinois; that it is they who have fomented trouble between the mine operatives and employers, and that they have caused organized violence in other fields.

The mine workers further charge that the Communists are being financed by streams of gold pouring secretly into this country, and by funds from Americans who were misled as to the objects for which they were asked to contribute.

"Any school teachers, clergymen, philanthropists and other well meaning people have subscribed unwittingly to the funds which are supporting the 'Reds' in this country, according to the mine workers.

The "manifesto" which has come into the hands of the Advertiser bears direct reference to Massachusetts affairs, citing the Sacco and Vanzetti case, and the "dynamite plot" which they alleged was a frameup against Merrick of Haverhill. The matter was mailed in Detroit, the heart of the automobile industry. The writing on the cover is the laborious copy-book hand of a woman.

URGE MILITANT WORKERS.

The propaganda is signed "Central Executive Committee, Communist Party of America, Frank Little, executive secretary."

It starts by referring to the recent struggles and splits in the labor movement in the United States; declares the Communist party has "emerged from the experience of the past four years with an organization still functioning for Communism," and adds:

"The Communist party will continue as a secret organization based on clear-cut, uncompromising adherence to the principles of Communism."

Striking phrases are: "Every member must make his or her blows count against the capitalist enemy."

"It is the task of the Communist vanguard of the various countries to give directions to the revolutionary sentiments that is fast developing everywhere."

"The action of the workers must become ever more militant."

"The class struggle is a political struggle, a direct struggle against the state power for the purpose of disarming the capitalist class, of wresting its instrument of oppression—the government—from it; destroying it and establishing in its place the dictatorship of the Proletariat."

"Our duty here is to uphold the traditions of Bolshevism in America."

WARN AGAINST "SLAVERY."

The reference to New England is in a series of paragraphs on anti-Communist legislation. The manifesto cites "proposed laws for indirectly slaving the foreign-born workers; to have them registered and fingerprinted as criminals."

It denounces court action in the "Red" raids of 1920, the recent conviction of members of the I. W. W. in the State of Washington, the continued imprisonment of Mooney and Billings "long after the lodestar frame-up had been exposed and even admitted by the prosecution," the prosecution of Sacco and Vanzetti, and "the new dynamite frame-up against Merrick in Haverhill, Mass.

It refers to the Herrin massacres as a case in which miners "defended themselves against armed gunmen of the coal barons."

WARFARE REVIVED.

The labor heads and police were emphatic, however, in declaring that the efforts of Communists to build up their organization in Massachusetts were meeting with poor success. The only striking point in recent distribution of propagandist literature, they said, was the persistence of the Communist party.

They pointed out that only three years ago similar efforts here were disastrous to the local agitators; that the party was practically impotent, and a larger group, including William T. and Amy Culyer of Wellesley, "high brow" Communists, were deported. Not long after that a large seizure of bombs and other explosives, with anarchistic literature, was made in the South End, and the man in whose dwelling they were found also was deported.

Recovering from these defeats, the Communists now again boh up smiling. They have even shown considerable effrontery in sending their "manifestos" through the United States mail, in spite of the action of Congress which declared it illegal to belong to the Communist party.

APPEAL TO ALIENS.

That these efforts were only sporadic, a forlorn hope and doomed to failure, was the unanimous opinion of all whom the Advertiser interviewed in its investigation. This opinion was expressed by such widely divergent agencies as the Boston police, the American Federation of Labor and social workers of the wealthy class.

Police Supt. Crowley declared the "Reds" had given practically no trouble here since the raids of January, 1920, which resulted in long-drawn-out trials in the Federal courts and deportations. During those trials, Amy Culyer on the stand declared she believed in revolution by violence, if necessary, in order to bring about control by the Reds.

"These 'Reds'," said Supt. Crowley, "aren't numerous enough to make any real problem here. They give out the sort of literature from time to time, but always under cover. When the police find it, they seize it and make an investigation, because we can't encourage that kind of propaganda by ignoring it. It appeals only to the most ignorant and least powerful class in the community.

"Usually these leaflets are left in garment shops, where workers will find them, chiefly aliens. Some of the distributors who have been seized by the police have been proved to be paid agents.

"Real Americans do not belong to this class of agitator, and the 'Reds' will never gain a foothold in this country, because the law-abiding class will always predominate."

CAN'T ATTRACT LABOR.

Frank H. McCarthy, New England organizer for the American Federation of Labor, said it was not uncommon for Communist propaganda to be received by members of that organization.

"It frequently is distributed to our workers," said he, "but little attention is paid to it. I think the Communist party has nothing like the power or numbers they claim for it. There is no doubt in my mind that they were at the bottom of the Herrin massacres, as the mine workers charge; but they are agitators rather than a powerful organization."

MEW TORSO TEST IN SUITCASE TRAGEDY

Counsel for Dr. Swope Asks Further Details in Death of Mrs. Wolschendorf

The dismembered body of Mrs. Alice M. Wolschendorf, victim in the Tyngsboro suitcase mystery, probably will be viewed again tomorrow as the result of a motion filed yesterday at East Cambridge, before Judge James H. Sisk, by Attorneys Frederick G. Katzmann and James W. Murdock, counsel for Dr. Dulva H. Swope, charged with being an accessory before and after the fact of the murder.

This motion, one of ten filed by counsel, requested a further examination of the murder victim's remains which are now in a Lowell undertaking room. Whithe these motions have not been formally accepted it is understood that the parts of her body will be brought to Boston and examined by Medical Examiner Magrath of Suffolk County and Medical Examiner Allen of Lowell in the presence of counsel for Dr Swope and Dr. William M. Robb. Dr. Robb is charged with the murder.

The second motion filed asked for a bill of particulars, calling upon the government to specify in detail the basis for the charges on which Dr. Swope is held. Arguments on this motion will be made tomorrow, it is believed.

Similar motions were filed on Fri day in behalf of Dr. Robb by his counsel, Atty. Feeney.

SWAMPSCOTT BOY BITTEN BY DOG

Bradford Day, 7, Attacked at Play, Father Fought Off Sane Animal

Seven-year-boy Bradford Day, son of George Day of Windsor avenue, Swampscott, was badly bitten on the back yesterday by a dog owned by Antonio Giancolo, also of Windsor avenue.

The dog, a mongrel with the appearance of a shepherd-collie, is the same animal that bit the boy's father a week ago today. The Swampscott police last night declared they would shoot the dog when it was hunted down.

The Day boy was attacked in the woods near his home. The animal took him unawares, springing on his back and inflicting bad wounds. The Lynn police were summoned and took the child to the Lynn Hospital, where his wounds were cauterized.

Announcement of the settlement was made by I. Gainsburg, counsel for the girl.

LEGION TRAIN OFF ON FLYING START

Adjt. Spillane Glad He Got Aboard, but It Was as Much as Ever

New England delegates to the national convention of the American Legion at San Francisco, 275 in number, left Boston yesterday on a special train made up of thirteen cars.

The train, much to the surprise of the legionnaires and those who went to see them off, pulled out so nearly on time that one near-casualty resulted and a number of feminine friends were almost slaughtered.

State Adjutant Leo A. Spillane was on the rear vestibule steps, talking with photographers, when the steel doors of the Pullman clanged shut and the steps flew up automatically as the train began to move.

The adjutant recovered his equilibrium and made a flying leap for the train, clutching at sour "gadgets" and holding on by these and his eyebrows while he banged at the Pullman window.

His predicament was soon discovered and the train was halted out in the yard to let him on. A number of pals who had been taken unaware, while bidding good bye to some of the delegates, hurriedly seized the chance to alight.

The legionnaires are bound to San Francisco determined to win some of the national offices for New England.

HUB TO ENTERTAIN POLISH COMMANDER

The city will arrange to extend the customary courtesies to General Joseph Haller, one of the heroes of the World War in the Polish army, and who is now commander-in-chief of the Polish army, on his visit to Boston, November 30 and December 1.

General Haller, through his valiant services during the war, earned the title of "Liberator of Poland." A luncheon in his honor to which distinguished officials of the national, State and city will be invited, is being arranged by Mayor Curley.

N. E. LEGION DELEGATES ON WAY TO COAST

Are Spending Today in Chicago, Leave Tonight for West

SOLID FOR SOLDIER BONUS

Gen. Edwards Converted to Cause; Will Fight Owsley on Aircraft

Chicago, Oct. 6.—New England delegates to the annual national conventions of the American Legion and Legion auxiliary, to be held in San Francisco October 15 to 19, will spend Sunday in Chicago. They leave the Windy City tomorrow night and are due in Kansas City Monday morning and Albuquerque Tuesday afternoon.

They will stop at the Grand Canyon and other points on the westward journey where they will make side trips, will spend two days at Los Angeles and the movie colony, arriving at the city by the Golden Gate next Sunday evening.

The special cars of the special train were allotted to the Auxiliary delegations. There were about 250 in the big party, comprising the men and women representatives of this State, New Hampshire, Vermont and Connecticut. The Rhode Island and Maine delegations are making the trip as separate parties.

WANT EDWARDS AS HEAD

A big crowd cheered and waved goodby as the convention special drew out of the South Station yesterday. The old familiar yells of other days were heard as the veterans who remained behind urged the delegates to return with Major General Clarence R. Edwards as the next national commander and the members of the Auxiliary shouted good wishes for the election of Mrs. Helen A. Bishop of Leicester as the next national president of the organization.

Sentiment among the New England delegates is practically unanimous for the adjusted compensation bonus. General Edwards admits that he is a convert to the cause and that, like all converts, he is more strongly for the bonus, since he has come to see the light, than he was against it. He says he used to take some stock in the smooth talk of the anti-bonus orators and must have appreciated the sentiment which they flourished on every occasion of "Don't capitalize your patriotism." But now, wherever he hears that line, he jumps and shouts, "Don't penalize your patriotism."

BATTLE WITH OWSLEY.

He has found fighting valiantly for the adjusted compensation resolution in the convention. He will be found on the battle cry of the air craft opposition. National Commander Alvin O. Owsley will lead the fight in favor of resolutions calling for reduction of aircraft and demanding an international conference to consider the reduction.

"That plane is the extreme of foolishness for this country, in the opinion of General Edwards, and I am going to do everything in my handed for this belief, if necessary.

Every member of the New England delegation is fortified with an exhaustive brief on the bonus. It is a most remarkable document and reviews the history of the fight for adjusted compensation from its inception four years ago. Every phase it put pasgpsqto at tortgoth out to be replete with [illegible] summaries facts and figures. Here are some excerpts from it.

"The adjusted compensation bill passed the last Congress by a large majority vote but was vetoed by President Harding. There will be enough friends of the bill in the next Congress to pass it over a possible veto by President Coolidge."

"The deficit of $520,000,000, which Secretary Mellen of the treasury department told President Harding the country was facing, when the bill passed Congress, turned out to be a surplus of $310,000,000. Just a little error of a billion dollars on his part."

"The bill was changed to meet every financial objection pointed out by the retiring President and even then it was vetoed. It lacked but a few votes of passage over the veto and the recent elections have favored Congressional and Senatorial candidates who favor the bonus over its various candidates."

"Big business and its affiliated associations are on the war path again in an attempt to influence the next Congress to take an unfriendly attitude toward the measure, and, in the meantime, are spending selfish organization for the unfounded purpose of making it appear there is a division of opinion in the Legion ranks on the bonus question."

"The Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America, the chief representative of Big Business in this fight, is again to the fore and is preparing a comprehensive campaign of propaganda designed to persuade representatives and senators in Congress that the people of America do not desire adjusted compensation for the soldier, and that, even if the people do desire it, it is unsound economically, will be responsible for all the future financial ills of the country and abould, therefore, be educated.

CHARGE GIRL SPENT $9,000 ON TAXI RIDES

Investigators Declare Miss Rose Fritz Paid $5,000 for Theatre Tickets

LONG, EXPENSIVE TRIPS

Suspect in Larceny Said to Have Given Costly Presents to Her Guests

Nine thousand dollars for taxicab hire and $5,000 for theatre tickets, during a period of two years and a half, were spent by pretty Rose Fritz, according to investigators who are investigating charges of theft against the young Chauncy street bookkeeper.

Miss Fritz is under observation at the Boston Psychopathic Hospital, charged with larceny of $1,000 from the auto firm of William Solomon. Auditors are said to have found a shortage of about $28,000.

The alleged larceny was committed over a long period, by means of forged and raised checks. Authorities say they have found evidence that the girl used to take long taxi rides to Providence, Worcester and Springfield, on week-end trips. She was liberal with tips, dressed expensively and bought innumerable theatre tickets from a down-town agency.

Many of these she did not use, but distributed among her friends.

According to her mother, the girl has always been of upright character and quiet habits. She had few men friends, always came home to dinner and often to lunch. She frequently rode to and from her work in taxis, it is said, and also used to take home lunch.

"Rose was never away from home except for occasional week-end trips," said Mrs. Fritz. "It was hard to understand how she could dress better on her salary of $18 a week than her sisters, who earned more than she did."

STOLEN AUTO, ONCE RUTH'S, RECOVERED

The New York automobile abandoned in Quincy by two men three weeks ago was identified yesterday by John H. Fisher of New York as his car, stolen in New York. The machine formerly was owned by "Babe" Ruth of the New York Yankees, from whom Fisher purchased it. Two weeks asked permission of a Quincy woman to leave it in her barn until they could have the engine repaired.

ITALY TO DISMISS MANY RAIL WORKERS

Rome, Oct. 6.—Premier Mussolini, receiving President D'Aragona of the Federation of Labor, today, said government would insist on application of compulsory labor contracts between employers and their men. To make the railways a paying proposition, he said many more thousands of rail workers would have to be dismissed.

G. O. P. SCHEME TO SIDETRACK COX EXPOSED BY WOMAN

PARTY LEADERS ARE RILED BY MRS. TILLINGHAST'S SPEECHES

Butler to Run for Senator While Governor Is to Be Offered Tempting Business Post; Weeks or Rogers May Upset the Carefully Laid Plans

Shrewd and expert players of the Republican game of politics are not at all pleased over the speech of Mrs. James D. Tillinghast at the famous New Bedford conference a few days ago of prominent men and women politicians.

They like to pull their strings behind the scenes and delay the pulling until the signs and portents seem most favorable. They are saying she let the cat out of the bag; that she gave away the plot to kill off the political ambitions of Governor Channing H. Cox and clear the way for William M. Butler of New Bedford to win the nomination for United States Senator.

"It makes it look as if her remarks were inspired is that she is [illegible] of the woman's section of the Republican State Committee. A State committee has received its orders from those higher up to make Butler the candidate of the machine. It is another case of a woman being unable to keep a secret, the practical politicians are saying.

COX FROZEN OUT?

Her remarks left no doubt of the belief in her mind that Republicans will be called upon to vote for the New Bedford man in the primaries next Fall and will not have an opportunity to consider Governor Cox.

State Democratic leaders, especially the friends of Senator David I. Walsh, are drawing significant conclusions from the New Bedford conference. On one point they are all agreed. They feel that all the oratorical guns fired were booms for Butler of New Bedford.

They see in the remarks of both the men and women speakers a paving of the way to the side-tracking of Governor Cox and his gradual elimination from the senatorial field. No one in the political field is taking any stock in the reiterated reports from Washington that Governor Cox is slated for appointment by President Coolidge to a judgeship of the United States court.

The politically wise in both camps consider these reports as a part of the game to ease him out of Republican consideration for the nomination for the senatorship. The feeling is growing among both Republican and Democratic leaders that he will be the recipient next summer of such an attractive offer of employment in civil life, when he retires as governor, that he will have a fine excuse for retiring from public life altogether and throwing his support for the senatorship to Mr. Butler.

Mr. Butler, former president of the State Senate, member of the Republican national committee, at one time chairman of the Boston Elevated Railways, and one of the biggest textile men in New England, is very close, in every way, to President Coolidge and enjoys the personal friendship and admiration of Frank W. Stearns, the President's Fides Achates. Besides that, he has been associated in the law for many years with the governor's brother, former Senator Guy Cox.

FINE PLUM FOR COX.

These signs suggest that a friendly arrangement is being made that will be mutually advantageous to Mr. Butler politically and Gov. Cox in a business sense. Some of the best informed of the political leaders of the state are saying with positiveness that the plum which is being dangled before the eyes of Gov. Cox is an offer of election as vice-president of one of the biggest insurance companies of the country, with an assurance that his particular duties will keep him in Boston as general local counsel.

All this is very interesting to the Democrats. Senator Walsh's friends are saying it is evidence that, notwithstanding the possibility of the nomination of Coolidge as President next year and a great sweep for him in this State, the Republicans are afraid Walsh could defeat Governor Cox in the senatorial race.

It interests those Republicans, too, who are recalling that the Republican party has not been having a great deal of success lately with candidates for high office supported by the textile interests. They point to the election of Fred H. Brown, Democrat, as Governor of New Hampshire, on a 48-hour week issue for textile operatives, the re-election of Senator Peter E. Gerry of Rhode Island and of William S. Flynn as Governor of that State. Both are Democrats and both made much of their opposition to control of politics by the mill barons.

WEEKS STILL HANKERING.

John W. Weeks has not said he is out of all consideration for the Senatorial nomination. Yesterday friends of his were saying he will announce himself as willing to take another term when the right time comes.

All the fulsome praise which Senator Lodge has been heaping upon President Coolidge lately is taken to mean that at last the "old man" has fallen under the Coolidge spell.

It seems so funny, too, to many Republicans who recall that three years ago, when Coolidge wanted the nomination, Lodge thought none so poor that they should do him reverence, while now he seems to think all should reverence Coolidge.

Former Senator Weeks, although a member of the Coolidge Cabinet, is consistently keeping out of the Coolidge praising act.

Simply send me your name and address and state whether you have catarrh or catarrhal deafness and head noises and I will send you a 10 days' supply free of all cost. Tell others about it. Want every sufferer to try it. Write me today. Dr. W. O. Coffee, Dept. 3013, Davenport, Iowa.

State Suspends Fare Increases On Railroads

RAILROAD commutation fares will not be increased 20 per cent. on Oct. 15, as the roads had planned. By an order of the public utilities commission, issued yesterday, the proposed increase is deferred until Jan. 15, 1924.

In the meantime, before it can become effective, hearings must be held before the commission. Dates for such hearings have not yet been set. The commission's action followed a strenuous protest by commuters, Boston business firms and suburban town and city agencies.

STOKES TO FIGHT WIFE'S CHARGES

Millionaire on Way to Chicago to Face Indictments for Conspiracy

Chicago, Oct. 6.—W. E. D. Stokes, New York hotel and traction magnate, was expected to arrive from New York today or Sunday to face indictments returned against him and six alleged associates by the grand jury here yesterday.

The aged multi-millionaire with Daniel Nugent, his attorney, and five others, were charged in a blanket indictment with conspiring to defame the character of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, against whom the magnate has brought suit for divorce.

Mrs. Stokes told the Grand Jury her husband had attempted to secure evidence charging her with being a former inmate of the Everleigh Club, a Chicago resort internationally known fifteen years ago.

Stokes and Nugent, prior to leaving New York, furnished a surprise when they announced they would go to Chicago and fight the charges against them. It had been thought they would resist extradition.

PAYMASTER IS SHOT AND ROBBED OF $1,400

New York, Oct. 6.—Five bandits today held up and shot John Fetzer, sixty, paymaster, in Long Island City, and escaped with $1,400. Fetzer, employed by the International Motor Company, was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

DEATH THREAT FOR WITNESS TO MURDER

Fireman Who Saw Saxonville Dispute Ordered to Leave Massachusetts

Evidence purporting to show that Salvatore Letteri of Roxbury, alleged slayer of Patrolman William H. Welch of Saxonville, wrote a letter to John J. McGrath, a government witness, threatening his life if he did not leave the State, was given yesterday on the fourth day of Letteri's trial in East Cambridge Superior Court.

It is expected that all evidence will be completed and arguments begun tomorrow.

John F. Conte, an employe of the Roxbury postoffice, identified a letter addressed to McGrath, who is a fireman at the Roxbury House in Saxonville. The letter, which the government alleges was written by the defendant, threatened McGrath's life if he did not leave the State. Conte testified that the letter went through his postoffice between 11 and 12 o'clock on a specified day in April.

Letteri denies having written the threatening letter to McGrath, who witnessed the fight between the policeman and his assailant, which preceded the killing.

State Officers Edward B. O'Neil and Edward J. Sherlock, testified to having searched Letteri's room. They found, they said, a box of letter paper, similar to that on which the McGrath letter was written. On the top sheet in the box, they testified, Letteri had written the word "Boston," and his handwriting proved to be identical with the handwriting in the letter.

WOMAN, LOST ON MT. AGASSIZ, GOES HOME

Littleton, N. H., Oct. 6. — Mrs. Gladys Parrish, who wandered away from her Summer home in Bethlehem Thursday night and spent several hours on Mt. Agassiz before she was found early yesterday, has left for Washington, D. C.

Here home is understood to be in or near that city. She sustained an injury to one leg, for which she was treated at a hospital here before leaving. Mrs. Parrish is the widow of the former Congressman L. W. Parrish of Texas.

totaller? Ah, not exactly that."

Amazing is the number of men that manage to go through life and achieve real results without being teetotalers. There was Gladstone, the late Pierpont Morgan, Pope Leo and Marshal Moltke, both of whim lived to be very old, and Bismarck and Clemenceau, Wagner, Beethoven, Shakespeare, Theodore Roosevelt, Christopher Columbus, Joan of Arc and Woodrow Wilson.

Not one of them a teetotaler, yet how much they did.

What a wonderful world this will be when, to all its other powers are added the stimulating and genius-creating effects of total abstinence.

ZANGWILL is here to visit Nathan Straus and address the American Jewish Congress on the problem of the Jewish people.

It's an old problem, far from settlement, as old as the problem of a cat with many dogs in the neighborhood.

TEACH a dog that there is not god reason for biting a cit. It's hard to teach a cat that it does not pay to scrach a dog's face.

HUMAN BEINGS hate each other like cats and dogs, because of slightly different racial characteristics, instead of realizing that a combination of all these characteristics have built the world and everything worth while in it.

ZANGWILL attacks Hilaire Belloc's book, "The Jew." That's waste of energy, as foolish as that of the dog who chases a cat up a tree.

Zangwill has genius, real intelligence; Belloc has neither. His books is a cheap performance, well included in Lloyd George's sufficient description of anti-semitism as extraordinarily stupid.

ZANGWILL'S intelligence shows in the fact that he sees and describes all sides of Jewish character, not confining himself to excessive praise.

Jews, like many others, have been injured by those that consider themselves their best friends. To tell a child or a race that it is perfect, is not kindness.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, who hasn't made any mistakes thus far, announces that he is opposed to the sloppy sentimental talk about canceling Europe's war debts. He doesn't say, but probably thinks, that Europe would spend more wisely paying what she owes the United States, instead of investing in new machinery for killing her own people.

Some European nations look upon the suggestion of payment as a joke. But the suggestion can be made a serious enough when it pleases this government to do it. There are custom houses for that. No pay, no selling goods here, would be convincing.

This nation should show a kindly, patient spirit. Debtor nations should at least prove a desire to pay.

CORN AT 1 a bushel interests farmers. That is an improvement on corn at 15 and 20 cents a bushel that farmers used to use for fuel instead of coal.

A more cheerful stock market closing enabled men that live by taking profits out of the air, to sleep well last night and play golf with a clear eye. Those gentlemen have had a hard rifle lately. WHAT they make, WHEN they make, you need not envy them.

PHILADELPHIA CLUBS TOLD TO BAN BOOZE

Philadelphia, Oct. 6.—Philadelphia clubs today served notice on members they would have to observe the 18th amendment within the club walls.

This follows a tour of the clubs by a representative of the prohibition enforcement officers.

Club officials were told individual members found violating the law would be prosecuted.

The Racquet Club mailed notices to all members to refrain from violating the law in the Club house, employes were instructed to refuse to serve or handle any liquor.

$6,660,140 IN MOTOR FEES IN 9 MONTHS

Enormous increases in the number of motor vehicles registered in Massachusetts, the number of persons licensed to drive, and the fees derived from both, were shown in figures made public yesterday. During the first nine months of the year owners of motor-driven vehicles paid to the State a total of $6,660,140, almost $1,000,000 more than for the whole of 1922. Registration of passenger cars (including motorcycles) totaled 453,300, and 470,378 licenses were issued. Of these, 103,433 were new licenses and the rest renewals.

COMPARISONS

AT our Uptown Store we have a rare collection of coloured lithographs of shoes of the 19th century. Close by are the latest fancies of this autumn of 1923 — and comparisons are interesting. In many cases we have improved upon their beauty — though seldom their grandiloquence! In all cases the shoes of today are more considerate of comfort. And the price today, based on Thayer McNeil value, is a happy contrast with that of the custom designers of the century just past.

ADVERTISER PAYS VICTIM'S FAMILY $250

Malden Household First to Collect by Subscription Insurance Plan

The Boston Daily Advertiser has sent a check for $250 indemnity to the family of Peter F. Maher, No. 62, of 72 Oakland street, Malden, who died September 13 of a fractured skull after he had been knocked down by a truck.

his check was the first indemnity paid by the Daily Advertiser under its offer of a $1,000 travel accident life insurance policy given to every person who becomes a recorded home-delivery subscriber to the daily newspaper.

Mr. Maher's heirs received the check just three weeks and one day after he died.

Mr. Maher was struck down by a truck driven by Lawrence P. Quirk of Alexander street, Dorchester, while crossing Washington street at Cooper street on September 12. Quirk sped away after the accident.

He was followed by John M. Fullman of Winthrop who witnessed the accident from his car. Fullman overtook the speeding truck and ordered Quirk to return to the scene. Quirk paid no attention and the next day was arrested in his home.

He was charged with manslaughter, with appropriation of the truck without the permission of the owner, with excessive speed and with running away after the accident.

Mr. Maher died the next day.

THE DAILY ADVERTISER finding that Mr. Maher had taken advantage of the offer to protect his family by an insurance policy in becoming a recorded home-delivery subscriber, immediately notified the Inter-Ocean Casualty Co., of his death.

Mr. Maher's policy was paid under the clause which provides against the particular kind of accident that killed him. The clause reads:

"Two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00) will be paid on the life of any subscriber struck, knocked down or run over by vehicle while standing or walking on public highway."

If Mr. Maher had been killed while riding in any kind of a vehicle, his heirs would have received $1,000.

COVERS VEHICLE ACCIDENT.

The policy given by the DAILY ADVERTISER to its home-delivery subscribers covers every possible kind of vehicular accident by many payments. It is a policy graduated from $1,000 and covering any person, male or female, between the ages of 15 and 70.

It covers its holder against accidents while riding in automobiles, street cars, railroad passenger trains, taxicabs, interurban electric trains, jitney busses, steamboats or horse-drawn vehicles.

It also covers the life of the man-ing of any policy holder struck or knocked down as was Mr. Maher.

The Daily Advertiser was interested in making this remarkable offer to its subscriber by the alarming number of deaths in automobile, street and transportation accidents during the past year. The death toll throughout the nation mounts up to 200 00 human beings.

The Daily Advertiser knew that in time this condition would eventually be remedied. But meanwhile people are dying, violent deaths on public highways. And no man or woman knew when he would be killed.

The Daily Advertiser determined it could and would help its readers protect their families by making it possible to assure their dependents and themselves an indemnity in the event they were maimed or killed.

The death toll by accidents is mounting daily. This month of October has been named by the authorities "The Death Month" because of the numerous fatal automobile accidents that come at this time.

Your turn may be next. Protect your loved ones and those dependent upon you by getting one of these policies.

You can do that by merely subscribing to the Daily Advertiser.

GERMAN GUARANTEE PACT CAMOUFLAGE, SAYS POINCARE

FRANCE WILL NOT EXPOSE HERSELF TO LURE TO DISARM

Agreement of That Kind Can Have No Practical Value, He Declares—Will Insist on Payment of Reparations and Will Maintain Security of Nation

By Raymond Poincare
(Premier of France.)

PARIS, Oct. 1.—When peace was signed the Allies mutually promised, and Germany herself swore, that so much crime should not rest unpunished and that reparation should be made for all the losses caused by the invaders in respect of both persons and property.

For some people these decisions are today a dead letter. Because the Germans have repudiated their engagements and because we have thought fit to recall these engagements them, certain persons have inferred us with criticism and have forgotten all that the purpose of ruin. They have also forgotten that Germany has done for the purpose of avoiding her obligations. The final day demands exaggerated and tiresome because we, being the party most seriously wronged, are more in need than all others of being speedily indemnified.

SHOCK TO FRENCH PEOPLE.

Let us accept all these injustices without bad temper. Such injustices shock us as French people, because we have always cherished the illusion that we were loved for ourselves alone and we find it painful to be disappointed.

But while we should be wrong to imagine that it was for our friends and not for ourselves to take up our defence, we should also be wrong in fearing to wound anybody by sustaining our rights.

The Treaty of Versailles does not entrust the duty of fixing the amount of the German debt and of laying down the conditions in which it should be paid to a commission of neutrals, to international experts, to an international trustee society, or to the League of Nations itself, but to the reparations commission, whose powers Germany has expressly recognized.

If there is any idea of taking the question out of the hands of that commission, the reason undoubtedly is because it is regarded as unlikely to be very favorable to fresh concessions. Such further concessions would be contrary to the engagements entered into with France.

TO PREVENT WAR.

Today the war is over, and our only desire is to prevent it from ever recurring. The inhabitants of ruined towns understand better than anybody, however, that peace will remain fragile and tottering if the losses of which they have been victims are not reimbursed, and if those who caused those losses remain free to dream of fresh bellicose enterprises.

We must insist on receiving payment of our reparations, and we must also watch over the maintenance of our security. Neither in respect to the one or the other of these two matters do we intend to give up the substance for the shadow.

Germany is today murmuring to us words which she believes to be tempting, and promises from which she expects wonderful results. Some of her publicists and politicians have again taken up an idea we have heard before in the hope of guiding us to adopt.

Why, they are asking, should not the powers bordering on the Rhine bind themselves together for a certain period for the purpose of guaranteeing the status quo in that region?

The promoters of this ingenious plan take care to add that there are intelligent people among the Allies of France who find it excellent, and who are prepared to recommend its adoption.

OBJECTIONS TO GUARANTEE PACT.

We thank them, but we do not intend to allow the friends of France to wander away into such perilous ways. The day when Germany shall have fulfilled the obligations into which she has entered she will be free to ask to be admitted into the League of Nations, and when she becomes a member of it, France and Germany will by this fact in itself reciprocally guarantee each other against aggression.

A special pact between the nations bordering on the Rhine would add nothing to the text of the Treaty. It would have at the same time the serious inconvenience of weakening the general pact, for as it would not apply either to the frontiers of Czechoslovakia or to those of Poland, it would appear to leave Germany more liberty in the East and South than in the West.

And it goes without saying that the moment the Reich was again seized with militarist hunger, it would begin to direct its attacks far from the Rhine, only to turn them against us if we went to the aid of our Allies.

Moose Killed by Hub Man Has 61½ In. Antlers

Wrangell, Alaska, Oct. 6.

R. N BURNS of Boston killed a moose whose antlers had a spread of sixty-one and a half inches. His party has just arrived from a big game hunt across the Canadian boundary.

A caribou killed by D. W. Bell of Williamsport, Pa., was today pronounced by experts the largest specimen ever seen.

The party brought in more than 100 caribou. State Senator Robinson of ohawk, N. Y., slew three grizzly bears, one of which was 10 feet 2 inches long and weighed more than 800 pounds.

The large caribou shot by Bell had antlers with thirty-eight points and with a spread of 55¼ inches and a length of 65½ inches.

45,000 IN MILLS FACE IDLENESS IN FALL RIVER

Big Plants, Running at Loss, Are Likely to Shut Down

OWNERS CONFER MONDAY

Wage Cut, They Say, May Be the Possible Way Out

Fall River, Oct. 6.—Approximately 45,000 mill workers in the 112 mills in this city soon will be thrown out of work, it is feared by labor officials here.

A special meeting of the Fall River Cotton Manufacturers' Association has been called for Monday afternoon to discuss local textile conditions.

The manufacturers say the mills have been operating at a loss for the past few months and that the mills will have to be shut down until the period of business depression is over or the workers will be forced to suffer a substantial cut in wages.

Last April the textile workers were granted a 12½ per cent. wage increase. Since that time, the manufacturers claim, profits have dwindled and this, coupled with the fact that the textile market has been weak, has brought about conditions under which mills are operating at serious loss.

Many of the mills now are operating only three or four days a week and it is believed probable as a result of Monday's conference that all of them will shut down for a few months.

The textile mills in Manchester, N. H., will close their doors Monday. The manufacturers in that city also say their mills are operating at a loss.

One Day's Free Fishing Draws Crowd of 2000

MORE than 2,000 crowded the banks of the lake covering several acres at Long Park today, when free fishing was allowed for one day only.

The fish have become so abundant this means was used to reduce the number.

Poor luck was reported, as the several kinds of bait offered did not tempt the fish, which live mainly on food tossed them by picknickers.

JUSTICE KING RETIRES AT 72

Justice Henry A. King of Springfield, after sitting on the Superior Court bench since April, 1902, has resigned. His resignation was accepted yesterday afternoon by Governor Cox. He will be seventy-two years old next January and his age is the reason given for retiring. Governor Cox will name his successor at the next meeting of the Governor's Council.

Judge King was appointed by Governor Curtis Guild, Jr. He was born in Monson, Jan. 14, 1852, was graduated from Monson Academy in 1869 and from Amherst College in 1873. While teaching school, part of the time at Monson Academy, he read law and in 1875 entered the Columbia Law School of New York City, graduating in 1877. He immediately began practice in Troy, where he remained until 1898.

MAXWELL GETS 'POISON' NOTE

Author, Fond of Writing Letters, Again Victim; Second Missive Disclosed

New York, Oct. 6.—Two "poison pen" letters similar to those which figured in a like scandal several months ago, have been sent to George Maxwell, president of the American Association of Authors, Publishers and Composers, and another man, Dist. Atty. Benton disclosed today.

Mr. Maxwell, some time ago was exonerated of authorship of letters received within the last two years by Allan A. Ryan and other prominent persons.

The letters received by Mr. Maxwell were similar in almost every detail to those received by Mr. Ryan and others, Mr. Banton said with the exception that no woman was mentioned.

The missives taunted Mr. Maxwell with having vainly supposed himself free from his annoyers and advised him they "are still on the job."

Both letters were typewritten, but on different machines. They were signed "We, Us & Co." as were some of those which figured in the so-called Maxwell case.

BABY HOUSE A MAGNET AT HEALTH SHOW

BOY AND GIRL SCOUTS AID

Growth of Medical Science in New England Shown in Pageant

Boston's great Health Show opened in Mechanics Building yesterday, to continue eight days.

It is the greatest health exhibit in the history of the city, perhaps the largest ever held in the country.

There is something of interest to everyone. The historic health pageant is one of the features. It depicts, among other things, the growth of medical science in New England.

Another feature which proved to be a magnet for visitors is the Baby House. Every afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock, excepting Sunday, children six months to six years will be thoroughly tested mentally and physically. The public is permitted to witness the examinations. Mothers will be instructed in the scientific care of their babies.

SHOWS HOW TO LIVE.

Then there is the House of Health. This literally shows people how to live. Minature rooms will show how to sleep, the virtue of fresh air and the proper foods.

One section is devoted to the prevention of industrial accidents. In the basement there are a number of machines equipped with the latest safety devices, showing how workingmen's lives can be saved by proper precautions.

The hospitals of the city have contributed a minature hospital to represent their work. It gives an idea of the tremendous work done by the institutions.

There is an exhibition of life saving by the American Red Cross. A glass tank has been installed and the proper method of rescuing a drowning person and what to do afterward are graphically demonstrated.

MANY LECTURES.

There will be numerous lectures on health by the foremost medical men in the country. Motion pictures will illustrate the lectures. Musical programs have been arranged.

Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts have their booths and will show how they are aiding in protecting the health of Young America in Boston.

"The Modern Girl" will be discussed at the Parenthood Institute tomorrow. Is she indifferent to the responsibility of marriage, of homemaking and of parenthood? These questions will be answered by Miss Dorcas Wellington, physical director of the health department of the Jordan Marsh Company, and Miss Anna Weinstock, commissioner of conciliation of the U. S. Department of Labor.

Health departments of State and city, medical societies of Greater Boston, civic associations and doctors and nurses have co-operated to make the health show a success.

Stresemann to Renew Offer of Reparations

Berlin, Oct. 6.

CHANCELLOR GUSTAV STRESEMANN announced in the Reichstag today he would renew his last reparations offer to France and the allies.

Since the offer was previously made, Germany has met France's demand that passive resistance in the Ruhr be ended.

The Chancellor said the government would maintain an anti-trust policy, breaking up big monopolies.

On Monday a measure will be debated and passed upon authorizing the government to renew reparations proposals to the allies.

MURPHY AGAIN HELD AS SLAYER

Captured in Gun Battle; Charged With Killing Michigan Policeman

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 6. — Jesse Murphy of Boston, who confessed to the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Store murders in Roxbury and Dorchester, Mass., and then repudiated his confession, was arrested here charged with leading a gang of hi-jackers and killing Patrolman Oscar Rheinhardt of Munroe, Mich.

He was captured after a running gun fight between his followers and the police, one of whom was wounded.

Police say Murphy confessed his crimes here and implicated a number of others.

FR. BRACKEN TO SING AT CHARITY CONCERT

The Catholic Daughters of America will give a charity concert at Symphony Hall, Thursday evening, October 25.

The Rev. Lawrence H. Bracken, chaplain of the New York City police department, rector of St. Vincent's Home for Working Boys at Brooklyn, and a noted baritone, will be the soloist.

WIRES CROSSED, HEARD HUSBAND MAKING A DATE

Mrs. Dorothy Cote Lawrence Trailed Him and Mrs. Maddocks to Hotel

TWO DIVORCES SOUGHT

Was Prominent Witness for Disbarment Case of Pelletier

As a result of crossed telephone wires, which are said to have revealed an appointment between two persons, married, but not to each other, the home of the former Dorothy Cote, a star witness in the Pelletier removal trial, is broken up and two divorce actions are pending.

The actions are to be brought, it is reported, by Dorothy Cote Lawrence against Guy A. Lawrence, and by H. Rose Maddocks against Mrs. Gladys West Maddocks.

The quartet were intimate friends [illegible] the accidental disclosure, occurred during the recent [illegible] strike. The Lawrences at [illegible] occupied a luxurious apartment [illegible] 19 Hamilton road, and [illegible] couple lived at No. [illegible] both in Brookline. All [illegible] marital tangle except [illegible] have left their former [illegible] Maddocks has sailed for [illegible] home city accompanied [illegible] parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles [illegible] of the Hotel Wadsworth.

Lawrence has gone back to his former home in Gardiner, Me., after a vacation at Poland Spring, and Maddocks is living at the Fritz-Carlton hotel on Boylston street.

The two couples were inseparable. They used to motor, dine and week-end together. Both Maddocks and Lawrence are prominent in the automobile business.

One day, during the last days of the telephone strike, Mrs. Lawrence had occasion to call up her husband. The wires became crossed, and she was astounded to hear his voice and that of her chum, Gladys Maddocks, in conversation. They are alleged to have made an appointment to meet.

Mrs. Lawrence did a little sleuthing and enlisted the aid of Maddocks, who hired detectives to trail the other pair. When the time was ripe, Mrs. Lawrence and Maddocks, accompanied by the detectives, went to a certain fashionable Back Bay hotel and ascended to a room indicated by the hotel register. One of the detectives knocked, and Lawrence's voice is said to have asked what was wanted. The man replied that it was the hotel plumber. The door was opened, and the accusing parties rushed into the room, where Lawrence is said to have been found alone with Mrs. Maddocks.

IN PELLETIER TRIAL.

The Lawrences came into the limelight during the Pelletier trial, where one of the charges against Pelletier was that he had conspired to cause Dorothy Cote to stop a suit against Lawrence, through threats of criminal prosecution.

Lawrence was said to have brought the then Miss Cote to Boston and to have paid her tuition at a business college. He made her many gifts, among them an automobile on which was engraved her monogram. A quarrel arose over Lawrence's alleged attentions to another woman, and Lawrence ordered the parade man not to allow Miss Cote to use the car.

She brought suit, which was dropped through Pelletier's influence.

Later, when the former district attorney of Suffolk County was brought to trial before the full bench of the Supreme Court on charges of conspiracy and blackmail, one of the witnesses against him was Dorothy Cote Lawrence. Spectators were amazed to learn the pair had not only patched up their legal quarrel, but had married.

The marriage was apparently happy until the alleged shift in partners.

GRATITUDE

"We, my brother and I, were talking over the question of how we could best show our gratitude to the Osmo-Chemic Physicians for curing us—my brother of ulcers of the stomach and myself of Rheumatism," said Mr. Robertson, who resides at 51 Chestnut St., Norwood, Mass. "He continued: "We decided that we could best show our gratitude, and at the same time benefit others, who suffer from chronic disease and who do not know where to go for relief, by publishing our experience at our own expense. Accordingly, we are here to do that thing. My brother, who resides at 31 Peabody street, Salem, was cured of a very painful ulcer of the stomach that had resisted the efforts of the local and Boston physicians, but the Osmo-Chemic Physicians, a few years ago, made them he has advised all his relatives and friends to put their troubles on to the Osmo-Chemic Physicians, and they have never had cause to question the wisdom of this advice. When I suffered severely from lumbago, my brother said, 'By all means consult the Osmo-Chemic Physicians,' acting upon this advice, I did so.

The wonderful power of the X-RAY TREATMENT is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonderful cures in diseases of every description—CATARRH, DEAFNESS, BRONCHITIS, STOMACH DISEASE, NERVOUS DISORDERS, SKIN DISEASE, BIRTHMARKS, MOLES, FACIAL BLEMISHES, etc.

No matter what your disease may be, remember that the Osmo-Chemic doctor gives

"MY HOME IS MY ALL"

More So Today Than Ever Before

AT some time nearly every day you say: "I am going home." Home is the closest thing in our lives; in fact, "My home is my all."

It was because the Colonials wanted to live in their own home in their own way, with religious and political freedom, that they braved the uncharted seas and perils and privations of the forest.

For a while too many Americans lost the definition of "home;" its meaning had become submerged. Too many families regarded it as just a place to go when there was nothing else to do.

We are getting back to the home. When we say "My home is my all," it now means a home.

Home is what you make it in every sense of the word. Home is the atmosphere which surrounds us, and nothing adds and nothing makes for atmosphere like GOOD FURNITURE.

It need not be expensive---good furniture never is. We can make our house physically attractive, something that every house must be before it can be a home. It must be furnished comfortably and in good taste, and no matter how much we pride ourselves upon our sense of niceties, we can profit by the knowledge and experience of our furniture dealer. When you go shopping for furniture, be it only one chair or for one room, it is advisable to tell your furniture dealer what you want, and then ask him for suggestions.

In cultivating your home consult your furniture dealer.

The furniture dealers who advertise in The Boston Sunday Advertiser have many interesting new ideas to show you. Read their announcements carefully.

HOLDUP FAKED AS LESSON TO ERRANT HUBBY

Judge Fails to See "Joke" and Holds Two for Grand Jury

Haverhill, Oct. 6.—A holdup by masked and armed men at 1:30 a. m. for the purpose of teaching an errant husband a lesson w's too serious a matter to be considered a "joke" by Judge Otis J. Carleton, and consequently John MacWilliams of No. 48 Water street, North Andover, and Thomas Ryan of No. 1 Washington way, Lawrence, were held today for the January term of the Essex county grand jury.

The technical charge against the two men is assault with intent to rob Hugh Jameson of Emerson street and Edward Hannon of Davenport. The alleged holdup took place in Boxford, September 24. Harry Long, brother-in-law of MacWilliams, was driving an auto belonging to MacWilliams. In the car besides Long, Jameson and Hannon were Miss Margaret M. Sadler and Miss Winifred Larose, both of No. 15 Beacon avenue, North Andover.

ALL A "JOKE."

State Officer Griffin told the court the attempted holdup was a frameup between MacWilliams and Long, but it fell through when the would-be robbers lost their nerve. MacWilliams and Ryan declared it was a joke perpetrated to teach Long a lesson.

Miss Sadler testified the party had reached Pine Grove Inn about midnight and remained about ten minutes drinking ginger ale and near-beer. She told the court she had been keeping company with Jameson for a year.

Two miles from the Inn, she said, they passed a parked coupe. Some one in the road asked to borrow a jack, and as Long stopped the car two masked men with revolvers appeared.

GOT COUPE'S NUMBER.

The "bandits" ordered the occupants to leave the car. Miss Sadler said, but she refused to do so until one of them pressed a revolver against her ribs. They were ordered to hold up their hands, she said, and while they were "frisking" Hannon, Miss Sadler ran back to the coupe, rubbed the mud off the number plate and got the number. She said two shots were fired at her and she heard the bullets sing by her head, and a second later she was ordered away from the machine.

With a gun at her back, she said, she was marched back to the rest of her party, after which the alleged holdup men ordered the party to drive on. As they drove off, Miss Sadler said, one of the pair told her if she "squealed" he would kill her.

England Linked to Persia by New 40-Hour Air Line

By Universal Service.

London, Oct. 6.

IT is now possible to fly from London or Manchester to the Persian border in forty hours. This is due to the opening of a new airway between Moscow and Tiflis. London and Manchester are already linked aerially with Berlin and Moscow.

This development of Russian airways takes the aeroplane a further stage along the aerial route to India.

The route, which avoids all stretches of sea and mountains until it reaches the Caucasus, is the easiest possible from a flying point of view between Great Britain and India.

VAN DYKE EXPOSE OF ART ATTACKED

Louvre Curator Says Every Great Master Painted Some Bad Pictures

By BASIL WOON

Universal Service Correspondent

Paris, Oct. 6.—Prof. Van Dyke's Rembrandt's exposure, published in his book recently marketed in New York, has aroused general incredulity in rich art circles here.

Despite Van Dyke's reputation as an expert, not one of the big Paris art dealers or the curator of the Louvre echoed the writer's belief that only four of the 23 "Rembrandts" in the Louvre are from the brush of the Dutch master.

"Van Dyke is starting with the wrong premise that every painting by a master must be a masterpiece. Nothing could be further from the truth," declared Baron D'Estournelles de Constant, curator of the Louvre.

"Most of these revelations come from a similar source," he added, "because the critic, when he does not see flaming genius in a painting, immediately dubs it a fake, whereas every great master painted some very bad pictures."

The curator of the Chantilly Museum, after reading Van Dyke's statement that the "Portrait of an Artist" in the National Gallery was a copy, declared Van Dyke's assertions monstrous.

IRMA BLUE, DIVORCED, SA IS 'SONNY' GERKE

Los Angeles, Oct. 6.—Irma Gladys Blue, who charged Monte Blue, motion picture actor, with desertion, has been granted a divorce. She said they were happy until he left his job as a shipping clerk in Chicago.

H. C. ("Sonny") Gerke accused Marie Prevost, motion picture actress, of desertion and long ago a divorce. They were married in 1918.

GRAND JURY TO RESUME PROBE IN WEBB DEATH

Authorities Doubt Indictments Will Be Found Against Anyone

POISON EXPERT TO TESTIFY

Doctors, Nurses, Relatives and Friends Have All Been Summoned

Oct. 6 (I.N.S.).—While [illegible] regard it as extremely [illegible] whether indictments will be returned against any one in connection with the death of Mrs. Gertrude Gorman Webb, the wealthy bride of Charles H. Webb, broker, the Grand Jury investigation into the case will be continued Monday, it was announced to-

[illegible] doctors, nurses, relatives and friends of the dead woman, who [illegible] communicated with her [illegible] days at the fashionable Country Club [illegible] will be summoned [illegible] by know of the case [illegible] with the [illegible] Jury convenes again on Monday.

Charge and counter charge continued to fly thick and fast today between the opposing sides that are lining up for a fight for the dead woman's $2,000,000 estate.

Dr. William J. Meyer, the attending physician, whose refusal to sign a death certificate first brought about the inquiry, said today that medical skill was baffled by the presence of bichloride of mercury poisoning in his patient's system. He had virtually cured Mrs. Webb of pneumonia, he said.

This was denied by the broker-husband, Charles H. Webb, who asserted his wife was in "terrible condition" on the few times he was permitted in the sick room.

Dr. A. O. Goettler, toxicologist, who examined Mrs. Webb's vital organs, will be Monday's principal witness before the grand jury. He will report the finding of mercurial poisoning in her system, but not in sufficient quantities to have caused death.

HUB MEN HURT IN CRASH, AUTO STOLEN

Brockton, Oct. 6.—John J. McCarthy and William H. Lonergrin, both of Charlestown, were released from the Brockton Hospital, where they were treated for injuries they received when their automobile collided with a truck. They hired a Charlestown garage mechanic to salvage their wrecked machine. When the mechanic arrived here the automobile was missing from Morse's Corner, the scene of the accident. Brockton and neighboring police were notified.

THIEF ABANDONS STOLEN CYCLE

The motorcycle of Thomas Costello of No. 6 Jackson street, North Cambridge, taken from near the Belmont Country Club house, Arlington Heights, was found in East Lexington where the thief abandoned it. The cycle had not been damaged.

ALL-DAY FIGHT WITH ARLINGTON FIRE

Arlington firemen had a stubborn all-day battle with a fire in the valuable pine grove of Augustus Pierce on the Winchester line. They were handicapped by lack of water. Because of dry conditions, the fire ate its way deep into a heavy coating of pine needles.

WELLESLEY SOPHS SING TO FRESHIES

White-clad Girls, With Purple Lanterns, Serenade the Under Class

A procession of white-clad figures, carrying purple lanterns and wearing purple hats, startled chance visitors to Wellesley last night. Those who were not acquainted with the traditions of the college thought they were being confronted by some ardent enthusiasts of the Fiery Cross, when they got closer, they saw this brightly-lighted and singing procession was the class of 1926, serenading the newcomers in the village.

They sang lustily as they stopped before each house where the freshmen old [illegible] and sang [illegible] songs had penetrated the white sweaters, and the pavement had made its impression on their feet, while the wind had played havoc with the purple lanterns, and they were only too glad to adjourn to their houses for soup and crackers. But they left the Freshmen thrilled and excited, and eager [illegible] working on their own serenade which they sing to the Sophomores next week.

Mabel Swett of Newton was chairman of the committee.

IMMIGRANTS FOR BOSTON DIVERTED

British immigrants bound for Boston on two White Star Line steamships have been diverted to Halifax, by orders issued yesterday. Both ships, the Baltic and the Haverford, will disembark all British passengers at the Nova Scotia port, because the October quota for nationals of Great Britain was filled during the first few days of the month. The Baltic, which was due here early today, will probably arrive late today or tomorrow. She started with twelve saloon, 17 cabin and 799 steerage passengers.

CALL HEAD OF ROAD IN RAIL WRECK PROBE

A Grand Jury investigation to determine if criminal negligence caused the wreck of the Newport train of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad at Readville, on Sept. 12, which resulted in the death of the engineer and fireman of the train, will be resumed in November. Edward J. Pearson, president of the road, will be summoned as a witness.

R. I. GOVERNOR FLAYS PINCHOT ON COAL GOUGE

Declares Pennsylvania Tax Extorts $7,000,000 a Year From New England

Providence, Oct. 6.—Stirred by the number of complaints flowing into his office relative to the increasing price of anthracite coal to the consumers of Rhode Island, Governor William S. Flynn, in a communication today to Governor Gifford Pinchot, takes the Pennsylvania chief executive to task for his unsatisfactory settlement of the recent troubles between miners and operators.

He asks, pertinently, why Pennsylvania does not repeal its anthracite tax, and also correct the abuses resulting from royalties on leased mines.

"There is one thing that Governor Pinchot failed to delve into," said Governor Flynn, "and that is the tax on anthracite that is imposed by this State. Why Pennsylvania should be allowed to gouge the anthracite consumers of New England and other sections of this country out of $7,000,000 annually, is one of the questions I should like answered.

STATE A FUEL PROFITEER.

"All the economic and political sophistries of Governor Pinchot cannot explain away the iniquities of this particular tax. This tax stamps the State of Pennsylvania as a fuel profiteer.

"Now, when Governor Pinchot consented to serve as arbiter of the labor troubles existing in his State, he should have taken cognizance of the anthracite tax. Why he did not, I cannot answer. Of course, one cannot forget that the anthracite operators of Pennsylvania are powerful factors, politically. What influence this may have had, if any, I do not know. It may be that politics is responsible for the retention of this anthracite tax by Pennsylvania.

"Above all things, Governor Pinchot should have had something to say about the evils and abuses resulting from the system of leases and royalties that exist in Pennsylvania.

LABOR MADE THE "GOAT."

"Too frequently labor is assailed as the cause of increasing the costs of the necessities of life, and not sufficient attention given the 'ways of the system' controlling such essentials as coal and oil.

"I believe that Governor Pinchot should turn his attention to securing a removal of the tax on anthracite —this would be a beginning, and top [illegible],000,000 of the consumers. Then see to it that the immense returns accruing to coal operators, speculators and financiers from the royalty and leasing systems be done away with. Perhaps, then the price of anthracite might approach a reasonable figure."

TEXT OF THE LETTER.

The letter of Governor Flynn to Governor Pinchot:

"My Dear Governor:

"It was encouraging to learn from your letter of September 10, that you have caused a careful investigation to be made in Pennsylvania of the means or methods which may be used to prevent gouging of the consumers of anthracite coal.

"I believe that you have very properly accepted a special responsibility in this matter as the Governor of the only anthracite producing State, and I trust that you will discover some means whereby the consumers of this great necessity may be relieved from the increased costs, which thus far they have been compelled to assume.

"To secure an adequate supply of anthracite coal for the people of Rhode Island at reasonable prices is, naturally, my very deep concern. In the nature of things, however, both supply and price at the mines are distressing elements over which this State has no control.

MINES STICK UP PRICES.

"The latest reports which have been made to me upon the cost at the mines for Rhode Island dealers indicate that the increase of 60 cents per ton, which resulted from the recent settlement between the miners and operators, is not being taken up in any part by the operators, many of whom, you state, could absorb the whole of the increase and still make abundant profits.

"On the contrary, I am informed that the quotations at the mines show increases of 60 cents to $1 per ton, and, further, that before an actual purchase of this coal can be made, amounts ranging as high as $4 per ton over the price quoted at the mines must be made.

"In addition to compelling some absorption by the operators of the increase in mining [illegible] which followed the recent coal settlement, a further advantage in price could be obtained for the consumers if the tax now levied by the State of Pennsylvania upon the production of anthracite were removed, and a correction secured of the royalty abuses cited in the recent report of the United States Coal Commission.

"I will be interested to receive advices as to the results of your investigation in Pennsylvania, and the action which you contemplate taking on this most important matter.

"I will also be pleased to give careful consideration to any particular means you may suggest to protect the consumers of Rhode Island from undue and unnecessary increases in the price of anthracite."

2 WOMEN SOUGHT AS SAFE CRACKERS

Two pretty women are being sought in connection with the arrest of "Baffler" Edward F. Tate, who served four and one-half years in Cranston, R. I., prison, by Patrolman George P. Milan of City Hall avenue station on a charge of being the "brains" of a gang of burglars who have been blowing safes and looting drug stores the past fortnight in and about the city.

The women, whose names are withheld by the police, are said to have accompanied Tate and an accomplice in many of his adventures in the downtown section and to have assisted them in disposing of the stolen loot.

Police Supt. Crowley appeared against Tate in Municipal Court yesterday. He asked Judge Lourie to hold Tate in $100,000. Attorney Martin Hays of Brighton, appearing for Tate, clashed with Crowley over the bail and the court reduced the amount to $50,000.

The arrest of the women is likely to occur late today.

Tate, when arrested, gave his address as Hotel Pennsylvania, New York city. The police have checked him up as one of the "two burglar stars."

In a suitcase carried by Tate were burglars' tools, including hacksaws, drills, bits, jiiers, pincers, rope and tape. A dozen police inspectors know Tate as a "bold bad man who delights to follow his profession."

REFUSED MILK, BEAT FARM HAND

Pawtucket, Oct. 6.—Cyrus Cole, farm hand employed on the Rose farm in Seekonk, Mass., just over the state line from here, was shot and slightly wounded today by one of two men who entered the barn while Cole was milking. The farm hand told the men to "go along," when they asked for milk. One of them drew a revolver and shot off one of Cole's fingers.

Both intruders then attacked Cole, beating him on the head with the revolver. Thomas Balin, another farm hand, came to the rescue, and he also was badly beaten.

U. S. MUST RELY ON BRITAIN IN PHILIPPINE ATTACK

NAVAL STATIONS ONLY LINE FOR REINFORCEMENT

Islands Are "Achilles Heel of Republic," Says Report of British Association of Liverpool, Pointing Out How the United States Would Be Dependent on Great Britain in Case of War.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—British naval stations form virtually the only practicable line for reinforcement of the Philippines from the United States in case of attack, according to a report of the British Association of Liverpool, a copy of which was received here from London.

This report, which was rendered at a meeting just closed, outlines the strategic position of the empire with reference to its outlying possessions, and declares that the empire has "an intermediate position among the commercial, national, religious and racial communities of the world such as is occupied by no other state."

FAR-REACHING EFFECT.

"How far-reaching was the effect of our intermediate position," the report continues, "was revealed by the important but little recognized fact that it was the British naval stations which would, if available, provide America with the best line for reinforcement of the Philippines, the Achilles' heel of the republic.

"The distance of Manila from the naval shipbuilding yards of the United States was almost exactly the same by Suez and Panama, but the Pacific connection had never been good owing to the great distance between stations, and was now worse than before the war on account of the island mandates acquired by the Japanese.

"The relation of Port Said and Singapore to America and the Philippines was only one of many cases in which our position was intermediate between the home and colonial possessions of a white nation.

GATEWAY FOR FRANCE.

"Thus the important French possession of Indo-China had to be reached from France either by way of the Suez Canal, where we maintained a garrison, or by rounding the Cape, where we had a national recruiting base, as well as a station of the Royal Navy. The two aircraft canals of intermediate position had, however, been generally missed owing to a one-sided interpretation of strategical geography.

"An intermediate station, particularly a naval station, had commonly been regarded as a blocking position, a barrier where freedom of movement can be interfered with. The historical fact was, however, that the harbors of the British Empire had also been a link between nations.

"In the war the British Empire had been a link of the allied and associated powers and its geographical position was unequaled for making a benevolent alliance effective or checkmating the action of an alliance formed with a sinister purpose."

LINK IN EUROPE.

The British Empire, the report continued, provided in Canada the one link between the European and American divisions of the white race, "for public opinion in the United States adhered to the view that the New World, in the sense of North and South America, should be shut off and sheltered from the evils of Europe."

Consolidation of the position which the British nation has won, the report states, turns upon the future of colonization within the empire. Great Britain must compare the number of the metropolitan and colonial British with that of their peoples within and without the empire, and take account of the relation between the present population of the world and the area of its empty lands.

RULE FOURTH OF WORLD.

The British Empire comprises the fourth part of mankind, but the ratio of white to colored people in the empire is only about one to six. The former are mostly of British stock, and belong to the Christian world.

The latter are of many stocks, differing physically from each other as much as from the white people and belonging to diverse religions. Their population is steadily increasing under British rule, and some of them have recently made advance in political organization and industrial efficiency. Consequently, if the empire is to be guided by the British, the number of the British race must also increase.

Speaking of the ratios between British population and foreign nations, the report points out that the population of Australia stands to that of Japan as about one to ten.

JAPANESE PATRIOTIC.

"The Japanese," the report continues, "were a patriotic as well as an advanced nation, and claimed equality with the white nations from patriotic motives. It was evident, therefore, that a strong reinforcement of British population was needed to maintain the doctrine of a white Australia. For the same reason New Zealand also needed reinforcement since Australasia is strategically one."

The number and density of the population of Canada, the report points out, is exceeded in the proportion of about ten to one by the white population of the United States. Hence it is inevitable, it asserts that there should be a large flow of people from the latter country to the Dominion.

"It was essential to unanimity in the empire," the report says, "that the Canadians should continue to be British in sentiment and large immigration from Great Britain was required in Canada. We had next to note that the population of Great Britain, which is now 43,000,000, outnumbered the combined population of Canada, Newfoundland, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand in the proportion of two and a half to one.

RATIO INCREASE.

"It had increased more rapidly than that of all these dominions, more than three and a half million having been added in the decade 1901-1911, in spite of an emigration which much exceeded the immigration. Thus the chief source available for the British peopling of the dominions was the metropolitan, not the colonial population."

SABOTAGE DELAYS BIG GERMAN SHIP

Dantzig, Oct. 6.—Labor difficulties have played a considerable role in postponement of the sailing of the Columbus, 35,000-ton passenger steamer the North German Lloyd is building for service between Bremen and New York.

The great steamer originally was scheduled for its first American trip Oct. 11. There has been much delay in completing the interior, sabotage on the part of workmen figures to a marked degree.

There has been a disposition on the part of workers to make the job last as long as possible.

40 Lashes With Cat-'o-Nine-Tails for Bold Crook

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 6.—JAMES D. MAJOR, who escaped from Kansas City, Mo., on the eve of starting a sentence of twenty-one years there, and who was convicted of highway robbery in court here, today received the everporal portion of his sentence—forty lashes.

The whipping was administered by Warren Leach. The whip is a cat-o'-nine-tails, composed of nine leather thongs, fastened to a heavy stock.

The warden laid on the blows so lightly the victim's back was only slightly reddened.

DIVORCEE BRIDE IN OLD ROMANCE

Policeman of India Sails With Former Maine Sweetheart

In a revival of an old romance, John Thurlow Rivett-Carnac, thirty-five, a policeman of Assan, India, took out a marriage license at City Hall yesterday afternoon to wed Ola W. Lambert, thirty-five, a divorcee of Houlton, Me. Yesterday, as man and wife, they sailed for England.

He gave his address as St. John Lodge, Upperton, England, and his occupation as imperial Indian police officer. He produced a waiver of the five-day law signed by Judge Dowd of the Municipal Court.

According to the application Miss Lambert was born in Moncton, N. B., but had lived for years in Houlton.

$1,000 DAMAGE IN FIRE AT NAVY YARD

Bluejackets, marines and the Charlestown battalion of the Boston fire department in charge of Acting Chief Philip A. Teague fought a stubborn fire for almost an hour yesterday afternoon in the roof of the foundry located in Building 42 at the navy yard.

Workmen discovered the fire, which navy yard officials say was caused by hot metal from the furnaces striking the roof.

The firemen were forced to chop over a dozen holes in the slate roof to get at the fire. The damage will amount to over $1,000, according to navy yard officials.

TO DEPORT WOMAN ACCUSED AS 'SLAVER'

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Deputy Sheriff Frank Cheri co turned over to the immigration officials today Miss Luigia Morrone, also known as Louisa Esposito, who is to be deported to Naples, Italy, as an undesirable because it is alleged she has been engaged in white slavery. She is 35 years old.

RAINSFORD AS BIG OIL BASE

Rainsford Island at the lower end of Boston Harbor will be the largest fuel oil base for ships along the Atlantic Coast, if plans of Mayor Curley are carried out.

The Mayor will recommend to the Council that the island be sold to a private concern. It is understood the Chamber of Commerce and a number of shippers are in favor of the project.

The island, formerly the home of the Suffolk School for Boys and lately used principally as a recreation spot for Summer outings of children, is a losing proposition to the city. The buildings are in such condition, according to Mayor Curley, that $100,000 would be required to repair them.

The Mayor points out that there is not a large fuel oil station for ships along the Atlantic Coast.

CITY REGISTER OUT, BUT CUT 112 PAGES

The annual Municipal Register for the city of Boston is ready for distribution at City Hall, and this year is a book which has been reduced in size some 113 pages from the volume of 1922. Through the reduction in size the compilers and staff of the department of statistics, cut out much of the unnecessary facts and figures which rarely attracted any attention on the part of those wishing to familiarize themselves with information regarding municipality.

WEDDINGS OF AUTUMN UNITE LEADERS OF SOCIAL SET

Ten Bay State Society Girls Join Fall Brides

Mrs. Palmer Casslett Putnam.

Miss Therese Perkins of Brookline Weds Tech Graduate

Saturday continues to be a favored nuptial day for people whose names are well-known in Greater Boston. Yesterday ten marriages of prominent persons were solemnized.

Miss Therese Perkins of Brookline, a graduate of Vassar, class of 1923, and Palmer Casslett Putnam, graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology last June, were married yesterday afternoon in the Second Church, Audubon Circle, by the Rev. Eugene R. Shippen.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Graves Perkins, of No. 82 Monmouth street, in the Longwood section of Brookline. The bridegroom is the son of Major and Mrs. George Haven Putnam of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Putnam will reside in Cambridge.

At Lenox Miss Helen Frothingham, daughter of Mrs. Samuel Frothingham, became the bride of James Hazeltine Manning, Harvard '21, and the son of Mr and Mrs. Wayland Manning of Boston.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Bishop Thomas F. Davies of the Western Massachusetts Episcopal diocese. Miss Margaret Morrell was the single attendant of the bride. The best man was John Codman of Boston.

The couple will live in New York.

An afternoon wedding was that of Miss Phyllis Bunche MacDougall of 20 Bradshaw street, Medford, and Thacher Jenney of Lexington. The wedding was solemnized in the Unitarian Church of Medford by the Rev. Louis C. Bethley. Mr and Mrs. Jenney will reside at 16 Vine Brook road, Lexington.

MISS O'KEEFE BRIDE.

A wedding of considerable general interest to the public was that of Miss Monica O'Keefe, daughter of Michael O'Keefe, owner of the chain of stores bearing his name, and John Louis Hurley, son of Mr. and Mrs J. J. Hurley of 198 Pond street, Jamaica Plain.

The wedding took place in the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes. The bride was attended by Miss Beatrice O'Keefe, her sister. Arthur O'Keefe, brother of the bride, was best man. The young couple will live in Morain street, Jamaica Plain.

Miss Marie Irving Luce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Irving Luce, and Thomas Appleton Tilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Tilton of Newton Centre, were married last night at Marion by the Rev. Frank L. Luce, an uncle of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Tilton were given a reception at the Sippican Tennis Club.

At Beverly during the afternoon Miss Katherine Marshal Otell and Philip Leon Randall, both of Beverly, were married by the Rev. William Emerson Jones of the Dane Street Congregational Church, Beverly. The bride is a graduate of Abbott Academy and the groom was graduated from Dartmouth.

RADCLIFFE GIRL WEDS.

Another evening wedding was that of Miss Esther Diana Joel of Everett to Harold Melvin Turner of Schenectady N. Y., solemnized in the First Universalist Church, Everett. Mrs. Kimball Ross, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Ernest L. Kresser was best man.

The couple left on a wedding trip through Vermont and the Berkshires.

The Grove Hall Universalist Church was the scene of the wedding last night of Miss G. Marion Schneider, Radcliffe '20, and Gordon Norfolk McKee, Harvard '18, both residents of Dorchester. The Rev. Leroy W. Coons of Brookline performed the ceremony.

An afternoon wedding was that of Miss Susan Lane Fessenden, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Frederick J Fessenden of West Newton, to George Pope Buell, son of Mrs. Wallace Buell of Pittsfield. The ceremony took place in the Second Church of Newton, the Rev. J. Edgar Park officiating.

Miss Alice Louise Armstrong, daughter of James F. Armstrong of Hawthorne street, Malden became the bride last night of Parker Stuart Kimball, also of Malden, the son of Mrs. E. L. Kimball. The bride is soprano soloist in a Lynn church.

The Rev. Clarence J. Cowing performed the ceremony in the First Universalist Church of Malden. Mrs. Arthur W. Mann of Melrose was matron of honor and Edward L. Kimball, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

DROWNING DOG SAVED BY ANOTHER

Lake Cobbosseecontee, Me., Oct. 6.—A little story of good samaritanism among dogs is contained in the incident that happened at the estate of W. G. Boothby. Cottagers noticed the barking of a dog all night and the next morning.

Finally two men investigated. They found an Irish setter and the dog led them along a path he had made in the deep grass to a well, where they discovered a collie which had worn away his nails in vain attempts to climb out of the water. The collie was almost exhausted when it was rescued.

SHOT HALTS PAIR FLEEING IN AUTO

Halted by a shot from Patrolman Marvin Coakley as they were about to speed away in a car alleged to have been stolen, two men were arrested yesterday in South Boston. They gave their names as John F. Lyman of 162 West Ninth st., and Charles Sullivan, 47 Gates st.

Coakley's shot was fired from an automobile in which he pursued the pair on Dudley st.

EX-MAYOR PETERS ON BIG GAME HUNT

Congressman George Holden Tinkham is not the only prominent Bostonian making a name for himself hunting wild game. The latest word from the British Columbia mountains is that one Andrew J. Peters, the city's former Mayor, is having considerable success concerning mountain lions. A recent photo received in Boston shows Andrew J. and a party of friends loaded down with plenty of game.

MUTINY ON RUM RUNNERS IS FREQUENT ON THE HIGH SEAS

FIGHT WITH CREW OVER GROG RATION A THRILL

Fire at Sea, Abandoning Ship, All Hazards of the Profession That Must Be Met and Handled Without Publicity, Author Points Out.

(This is the fifth instalment of "The Odyssey of a Rum-Runner," written by an English author, who took passage on a rumship to learn at first hand of their operations on the New England coast.)

By ROSCOE LIDDELL

(Copyright 1923, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

After spending a most enjoyable and educative holiday ashore, we received orders from our bootlegger-employer to proceed to Nassau, in the Bahamas, where an old schooner he had purchased, and of which Capt. Perry was to take command, was berthed.

This vessel turned out to be "a-crazy old wagan," with three masts, fore and aft rigged, but unlike our last vessel she was blessed with auxiliary power. In a day or two our bootlegger boss, who seemed to be getting more prosperous every day, joined the ship, and we three had quite a nice time together before setting out.

Nassau is a coldly built town, with a splendid harbor, and one is apt to wonder why such a nice place has been stuck away at "the back of beyond." In every way it presents a striking and pleasant contrast to St. Pierre, its rival in the bootlegging and whisky-running trade.

NONDESCRIPT CREW.

The crew were a nondescript lot, but fastidiousness is out of the question in the whisky-running line. I think it was the sixth day after our arrival in Nassau that we put out to sea with a cargo of almost 10,000 cases of American rye whisky.

Our destination, as when leaving St. Pierre, had not been disclosed ashore, but the boss told us we were to make for a certain point. Four days' sailing brought us opposite the desirable position in the mind of the boss, so we hove to, anchoring about fifteen miles from the shore.

An imaginary defect having developed in the foremopmast, we had it sent down on deck, so that, if boarded by prohibition officers, we had a plausible excuse for being where we were.

The following morning the first bootlegger arrived in nothing less than an electric yacht. We had hoped to do good business here, but the first order was certainly unexpected in its size. Two thousand cases was the demand made, and we readily met it, at the rate of $60 a case, which was a pretty good figure to get for whisky of West Indian manufacture.

A BRIEF WORLD TRIP.

When the 2,0 0 cases had been expeditiously loaded on the yacht, I remarked to her skipper, "You've got enough to keep you going for a bit, haven't you"

"Yep," was his reply, "we intend touring the world," but, as he returned in three days' time for another 2,000 cases, I concluded the world he had toured was a small affair of which I knew nothing

We disposed of our cargo within two weeks, and stood north for Newfoundland, expecting to pick up another cargo at St. Pierre, but Fate decreed otherwise. Three days after skipping anchor we ran into a hurricane, and, to make matters worse, the vessel sprang a leak.

For four days it was a case of "pump or sink," and, although the weather moderated somewhat, we were unable to get any rest. When the fifth day dawned we saw the schooner was doomed, and that the sooner we were out of her the better. Captain Perry commiserated with the bootlegger boss on the prospect of losing his vessel, which, of course was not insured.

"Don't let that worry you," was his reassuring reply, "the old tub's paid herself over and over a dozen times."

After four and a half days without having cooked food, and subsistence on biscuits and brackish water, we considered we were in luck's way when we sighted a schooner similar to our own, but happily then in a much better plight in answer to our signals of distress she bore down on us, and on board the eleven of us including the owner, were aboard her.

Our first impulse was to ask the skipper to put us ashore near where he found us, but, learning that he was bound for St. Pierre the was engaged in the same game as ourselves we decided to proceed with him thither.

Of course, we had saived all our effects from our derelict schooner, and the owner had brought away all his cash, so we had little of which to complain.

On arriving in St. Pierre, the boss paid what he owed us. But, without saying a word as to our future as it affected him, he went off on the passenger steamer Pre Patria to New York, leaving us at a loose end, but with a goodly wad of dollars.

A NEW ADVENTURE.

By this time we had concluded that we had had quite enough of the whiskey running game, and had made up our minds to board the Pro Patria (which runs regularly to the mainland) when she made her next trip for home; but the very day before she was due to return Capt. Perry got the offer of a berth as first mate aboard an 800-ton steamer which had turned whisky-runner The skipper was a Norwegian, and the chief engineer a Scotsman "in the way frae Fife." I went aboard, not knowing whether to go on with my adventure or not, but when I heard the homely Fifeshire accent of my compatriot I decided to risk another trip along the Yankee seaboard. Including the captain, first and second mate, the two engineers and myself, the crew of this steamer totalled 14.

The weather was fine, and we proceeded rapidly on our way until, on the second day our trouble came from an unexpected quarter.

Fire was reported in the starboard lower bunker, and dense clouds of smoke rose from the ventilators. The fire-hose was at once brought into play, and it was only a matter of a few minutes till we had the outbreak suppressed Whiskey and fire are a very bad mixture at sea, I assure you, and it was well that our nerves were in good working order The outbreak had been caused by spontaneous combustion among the coal in the over-heated bunker and we took steps to prevent a recurrence of fire.

AN ALARMING SEQUEL.

No further trouble developed until evening, when, after the hatches and ventilators had been secured, four of the crew went to the captain's cabin and demanded to know if so "grog" was to be served that night.

On being told that, judging by their looks, their ration had already been too liberal, the seamen became very abusive and threatened all sorts of reprisals if their usual ration of liquor was not forthcoming.

The attack was so sudden and unexpected that the captain was thrown to the floor. I immediately sprang to his assistance, and, when I had enabled the captain to rise whipped out my revolver and covered the two desperadoes.

In the circumstances the captain could not do other than place these two men in irons Thus he kept them for a couple of days, when, on their promising better behavior in future, he released them. This clemency may surprise some readers, but when engaged in an enterprise like whisky-running, for which purpose is the very last thing desired, a captain has to be unorthodox in many things.

Our reinstatement was precisely the same as on our first whiskey-running escapade. I think I said that on my first visit to the spot the schooners were lined up like "backrows at the Broomielaw"

We ventured in much closer to the shore than we did with the Bee Mart, which had to rely solely on sail power. This facilitated the sale of our cargo, which was cleared in ten days, and in due course we returned to St. Pierre, where we found ourselves once more out of a berth This did not worry us, for our mind was definitely made up to return home with our "ill-gotten gains," but, just as surely as on the previous occasion, our good resolution was destined to be disturbed, and again by a chance meetin.

(Watch for another instalment of this thrilling narrative.)

Marriage Is No Picnic Date, Asserts Judge

Seattle, Oct. 6.

HOW long after marriage should a woman wait to determine whether she has made a mistake?

Mrs. Vivian J. Nicolar thought two months were plenty. She got a divorce from Fred Nicolar on the ground that he hadn't supported her during their entire married life—of two months.

"Some of you young women of today," commented Superior Judge Everett Smith in granting the decree, "look upon marriage as lightly as you would upon a date for a picnic — to be canceled to make room for another."

WOMAN ATTACKS POLICE WITH AXE

BERWICK, Pa., Oct. 6.—Mrs. William Harter attacked Policeman Mason Pettit and Rittenhouse with a club and ax when they went to her home to arrest her husband, Mrs. Harter first beat off Rittenhouse, and he got the other two men before returning.

Mrs. Harter struck at Rittenhouse with an ax, inflicting a severe cut on his right cheek and his hand. The policemen finally overpowered her and searched the house, but Harter was absent. He was found later and taken to the county jail, charged with stealing clothes from a neighbor.

WOMAN KILLS 12 SNAKES WITH HOE

PRATT, Kan., Oct. 6.—Mrs. C. T. Carter, living eighteen miles north of this city, killed twelve large snakes in her front yard.

She stepped from the house and saw a huge wriggling mass. She grasped a hoe and dispatched the crawling reptiles in quick time.

BEVERLY BEAUTY FOR NEW HONORS

Eva Duquette Already Bears Proud Title of "Miss Essex"

Eva Duquette, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ovid Duquette, 22 Brown street, Beverly, who was chosen the prettiest girl at a beauty contest at the O'Brien dancing academy in Salem, will be a contestant in a beauty contest to be held in Salem this Winter.

The judge of the Salem contest was Miss Dorothy Clover who won the Boston Advertiser contest a few weeks ago.

Miss Duquette, who won the title of "Miss Essex" and a loving cup, is a distinctive brunnette. She possesses a slight and graceful figure and is an artistic dancer.

MOTHER BOSS OF SON'S HEART

Pennsylvania Court Says Parent Has Right to Object to Boy's Engagement

Washington, Pa., Oct. 6.—Washington County Court has decided that any woman in Pennsylvania has a perfect right to exert sufficient influence over her son to have him break off an engagement to marry, if she is not pleased with her prospective daughter-in-law

Judge Erwin Cummings dismissed the suit of Gertrude Lowenstein against Mrs. Farance McGowan for damages.

Miss Lowenstein complained that she had been engaged to marry the defendant's son, William McGowan, but the latter's mother had induced her son to break off the engagement.

No denial of the allegation was made, the defendant claiming to be within her legal and moral rights.

Judge Cummins said that he knows of no Pennsylvania authority which will support such an action and his court will not be the first to adopt so vicious a doctrine. He further stressed the opportunities which would be provided for gross misuse of the right should the court uphold the contention of the plaintiff.

The suit attracted considerable attention here and was bitterly contested.

STEALS PLANE, SELLS IT, STEALS IT AGAIN

Oklahoma City, Oct. 6.—An aerial bandit who stole an airplane and then sold it for $1,000 was sought by the police of Oklahoma and Texas.

After selling the plain in Oklahoma City the bandit returned to give a demonstration. He t appeared into the clouds with the money and machine. He gave the name of R. H. Tarbutton to the "purchasers," the authorities said.

HERE'S A NEW 50-50 PLAN FOR BUSINESS

Defiance, O., Oct. 6.—Prior to the establishment of a credit-rating bureau among local merchants a debt-paying campaign was conducted. The slogan was, "You Pay Me and I'll Pay You."

YOUR FEET

—How do they feel?—How do they look?

Eyes turn away with a glance of indifference from odd-shaped shoes, run-over heels and bulging counters. More than likely you are not at fault. Perhaps the bone structure of your feet is misaligned, causing your ankles to lean, arches to fall or callouses to form on the sole of your foot. Perhaps in your search for relief from hurting feet, you were at an end in knowing what to do. You resigned yourself to "unbecoming," odd-shaped footwear in the hope of some relief. You made that sacrifice.

How needless—that's all unnecessary today. You can have foot relief—absolute comfort in any style footwear that meets with your tastes. There is a modern way, the which enables you to have absolute relief from your foot troubles and keep in style. Merely the adjusting of all-leather Wizard devices which fit as comfortable as insoles in your shoes. The bone structure of your foot will be held in alignment and your feet will function with freedom and grace. So natural that you wonder that it was not thought of before.

Special Foot Service
ALL THIS WEEK

Just step in our Foot Relief Department. Without obligation or the slightest inconvenience to you the foot relief expert, who has made footcare and footwear his life work, will adjust the proper Wizard devices in your shoes. Take a few steps—no longer do you feel any pain. It's gone! Instantly you have relief—and relief that is everlasting.

'LEAGUE SHOULD TAKE LESSON FROM MUSSOLINI'---GARVIN

PREMIER'S STATESMANSHIP PREVENTED WAR IN BALKANS

Great Menace Still Exists in North Adriatic, Where Serbs, Croats and Slovenes Are Threatening Revolution Against the Triune Kingdom

By J. L. Garvin
(Editor of The London Observer. By special arrangement with The Observer.)

PEACE, like Venice, has been preserved for the time. Some of the Lasty zealots who were tempted to make themselves the fire brands of pan-Anthropy are almost disappointed by Signor Mussolini's saving return to moderation.

We hope they will imitate it; that they will form for the future a better estimate of that remarkable man, and that they will try to make him a friend and not an enemy.

He and [illegible] Power, [illegible] of the Lasty [illegible] ex[illegible] some [illegible] of [illegible] which [illegible] and [illegible] Europe [illegible] Mussolini has [illegible] not to [illegible] but [illegible] by sense of wise [illegible] and [illegible] proved [illegible] and [illegible] improved [illegible].

Some of the adherents of the League have taken a rebuke as for not joining more heartily in the merry work of smashing Anglo-Italian feeling and extracting that from the League itself. If we had done such inflammatory work in the name of peace I would be like tying the lighted tinders to the tails of fire foxes and setting them loose amongst the corn in the name of good husbandry.

NOT ABOVE CRITICISM.

It is a mistake to think that the League is above criticism and was above grammar. No human institution is more in need of criticism, especially one that depends upon its right management and effective enlargement.

It is a no less grave mistake to suppose that devotion to the League in its present inadequate shape, amidst the dangerous transitions of the world justifies the unlimited indulgence of fiery sentiments in connection with confusible questions. Good intentions of [illegible] etc could only end by placing the path of a good Guy Fawkes.

We must, first, forget the sequels of the Corfu crisis and examine the threatened conflict of Fiume now we hope, happily averted in the Italian dictators signally reason in statesmanship. If the peace of the Balkans had been broken in either connection nothing could have localized the conflict and future historians would have been another Balkan conflagration.

Until now, however the fat was in the fire Europe were making for fresh pressure by prophecies of war. These rumors were chiefly composed in Athens and Belgrade for the benefit of Geneva. It was entirely natural that the Greeks and Jugo-Slavs should endeavor by every means to stir up the activities of the league in their own favor and to alarm general opinion.

There is much need of alarm to the further future, but some of the present rumors must be a little severely examined.

DANGER IN BALKANS

We are told that the Bulgarian contingent are collecting 60 or 80 thousand men on the Macedonian frontier and in various ways surprising themselves with arms. This indicates a danger that is not a fresh outbreak but it was the old south Slav grow. It will of the modern Macedonia once more the witches kettle of Eastern Europe. Some statesmanship prevails in Athens and Belgrade we may hope.

There can be no possibility of preserving the Balkan states quo and long run unless Greece and Jugo-Slavia alike can bring themselves to remedy in time and by peaceful means the fatal weakness of their interrelations. For that they were by the respective Treaties of Bucarest in 1913, the Bulgarian race was [illegible] asunder.

If just concessions had been made to that people they would have joined the front war against the allies. Their conception had a calculable consequences, which was largely provoked by the obstinate extremism of their neighbors. Again after the peace conference the Bulgarian case was cut like draper's stuff and thus it remains.

It must always be remembered that what Signor Mussolini has inflicted on Greece is light and temporary by comparison with the fact that the Helenic Kingdom holds whole masses of another race, Say speaking Bulgarians, in prison until and after subjection. Yugo Slavia keeps some similar stare in the partition.

This is not political justice and it cannot last. It is amongst the things which are incompatible with the durable stability of Europe. When wrongs are inflicted on themselves, the little nations, appealing to the league, would be on stronger ground if they were free from aggrandizement and oppression at the expense of their own still weaker neighbors. There will be no sound health in Europe while this state of things prevails.

HAS DONE NOTHING.

The League can only be saved by the spirit, not by the letter; by its service to the soul of human justice, not by the numbered articles of a covenant. The League cannot [illegible] to [illegible] was [illegible] and [illegible] to escape [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

BELGIUM RECOVERS FASTER THAN FRANCE, SAYS FRASER

By Lovat Fraser

London, Oct. 6.—I am writing these words across the Channel, where I am paying one of my periodical visits to the old battle line of the Great War.

It is strange that more people do not visit the scenes where the mightiest deeds of our time were wrought. No one appears to try to see for themselves how far our gallant Allies, the French and the Belgians, are really recovering from the effects of those terrible years.

A day or two ago I crossed the French frontier from the Ypres salient to have a look at the little town of Bailleul.

I have always had a liking for Bailleul, and it seemed to me terrible that such a peaceful corner of France should have been ground to pieces in the war.

Hundreds of thousands of British soldiers must remember the town, it was in the great square of Bailleul, in front of the Town Hall, that Britons were laid out in rows after the original fiendish gas attack in the spring of 1915.

When I first saw Bailleul not a roof had been shattered in its quiet streets. A German naval gun was trying to bombard it from afar off but it had not got the range, and you could watch the shell's drop in a field just short of the town.

A CITY OF RUINS.

There was an officers' club in Bailleul in those days, where cheery souls seemed to be always lunching and dining in great numbers. The people clung to their houses with fatalistic confidence, and they all seemed convinced that the war would leave Bailleul untouched.

You could buy little souvenirs in he shops, and there were always piles of English newspapers, and one got a general impression that in normal times the town was quiet, peaceful and prosperous.

I passed through again just as the war were setting. The Germans had made their big attack in the North in 1918, had captured Mount Kemmel and moved forward a long way, but had been driven back.

We went by one desolate place after another where villages had once stood. I said to the staff officer who was accompanying me: "I should rather like to see Bailleul."

At the moment we were passing through some mean mounds of rubble, to my surprise my companion said: "This is Bailleul."

Not a house is now left standing in that pleasant town, and almost the only people lurking amid the ruins were two or three British soldiers who were cooking something.

Bailleul had been wiped out by big guns when we drove the Germans eastward in the last great "push."

I went back to Bailleul the other day out of curiosity. I had never ever visit the place, and I almost fear that it is not much regarded even by the French government. For the whole world knows that in the Grande Place, for the marks have not been effaced even now

RULED BY DESOLATION.

It is wonderful to contemplate what the people have done to restore Bailleul, but it is tragic to notice what they cannot do. Desolation broods over the whole locality. The Town Hall, whose site I identified five years ago by the accidental discovery of its foundation stone bearing an ancient date, has not been raised afresh.

Only half the inhabitants have returned after all these years. Bailleul used to shelter nearly 15,000 people, and now it only has 6,000 or 7,000.

When I asked them why the town was still in ruins, they said they could not get the money for building.

Prime Minister Baldwin is spending his holiday at Aix-les-Bains, which is an amusing spot, but not enlightening. It is quite possible that after being there a few weeks to supervise France can never have had a war at all, but I wish one or two of our effusive politicians, who are always sending rude messages to France and Belgium, would go to the war area.

Let them visit such a place as Gheluvelt, on the Belgian side. Let them stay at a little inn and walk over the hallowed ground, soaked with the blood of lots of thousands of our best and bravest young men.

So far as I am able to judge, Belgium has made much more progress than France towards recovery. The amount of building completed in such places as Zonnebeke, below the Passchendaele ridge, is absolutely astounding. Ping street, once the most apparent place in the sailor is so utterly unknown it is unrecognizable.

You may stand on Kemmel or Mount Noir, or Mount Rouge, and be thrilled with amazement at the number of red roofs which cover the landscape where once no building was left.

And yet I do not agree that the

Triplets Are Born on Ship During Gale

Gulfport, Miss., Oct. 6. WHEN Captain John Ehlebert of Cornwall, lead and skipper of the Helena, bound from New Castle, New South Wales, to Gulfport, with nitrate, arrived, he told a story of his unusual and distressing predicament during the voyage.

The Helena was just round ng the Island of New Caledonia and heaving heavily in the mountainous seas kicked up by a black southwester which had been blowing for three days when triplets were born to his wife.

The ship's physician, Dr. A. M. Fowler, died two days before and was buried at sea.

FIRE PREVENTION WARNING WASTED

Week Opens With Usual Crop of Alarms; Glynn Issues Appeal

Despite warning by Fire Commissioner Glynn and Fire Chief Taber that the full force of fire fighting engines and furnaces these chilly days, fire prevention week was ushered in with an abundance of alarms for frequent fires.

In a three-page pamphlet distributed yesterday, the commissioner also requested people to familiarize themselves with the location of the nearest fire alarm box.

"A person should be as familiar with the location of the fire alarm box nearest his or her home and place of business as they are with the location of the nearest car stop and railroad station," said Commissioner Glynn.

"Thousands of lives have been lost because someone did not know where or how to send in an alarm of fire.

"Go to the nearest fire house in your district and you will be informed of the location of the fire alarm boxes and the method of sending in an alarm."

HORSE UPSIDE DOWN IN DITCH TWO DAYS

(By the World-Wide News Service, Inc.)

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 6.—After spending two days in a five foot ditch, with all four feet stuck up in the air like an old fashioned four-poster bed, Jim, a flea-bitten bay mule, is back at the home of his owner.

The mule was soaked out of the ditch with an automobile wrecker. Jim's owner, Joe Robinson, says Jim is as much a member of his family as one of his pickaninnies and no one he had searched the city over for the horse before he was found in a sewer ditch in an alley.

MOTHER ALLOWED TO ADOPT OWN SON

Reading, Pa., Oct. 6.—A mother has been given permission in court here to adopt her own son. Some years ago Mrs. Helen Sassaman, who charged her husband with failure to provide gave one of her three children to George Selgfried and wife, of Womelsdorf, who adopted the boy, now five years old, giving him the name of Arthur Siegfried.

The mother is now in better circumstances and the Siegfrieds consenting, had the boy legally returned to her.

EX-COP HELD FOR DRIVING WHILE DRUNK

Robert C. Scourse, ex-policeman, pleaded guilty in Roxbury court today on charges of drunkenness and operating an auto while under the influence of liquor. Bail was set at $500 for trial October 16. Scourse resigned from the force while attached to the South Boston station and is under suspension. He was arrested when his car collided with one owned by Robert J. Walsh of Dorchester.

EAT ONIONS IF YOU WANT TO BE MAGNETIC

Mrs. Jean P. Adams, Food Expert, Gives Secrets on Relation to Personality

Wouldst be magnetic and have personality and natural beauty? Then—

Drink raw egg yolk and eat onions, soon and often.

Mrs. Jean Prescott Adams, famous authority on foods and health, thus unfolds the relation of food to health in all its phases, including personality, temperament, etc.

"The glow of health in the skin, a sparkling eye, creative ability and initiative come with the continued use of foods supplying iron, calcium, potassium, sodium, chlorine, oxygen, phosphorous and sulphur," she said.

NEED PLENTY OF IRON.

"Iron and oxygen work together to make new red blood. Iron is supplied by many tasty foods, and oxygen we can get fro mthe air. Oxygen is the easiest and cheapest chemical to supply, but the majority of people do not even take the trouble to breathe deeply and so supply this very valuable chemical.

"Iron attracts oxygen and the oxygen makes the iron magnetic in the temperament. Plenty of oxygen tends to make one a good mixer. Any person wishing to do successful work with people should take up quantities of oxygen.

"We have not given much thought to feeding the brain. The idea that the stomach is all that needs consideration in planning the menu is fast becoming Victorian.

STRONG DRINK HARMFUL.

"While the power centre of the brain makes one able to do big things in a big way if properly fed, it soon wears out if stimulated continually by strong beverages of any kind or too stimulating foods or narcotics.

"Children under seven should not be allowed stimulating drinks or manufactured sweets in excess.

"People who become drug addicts have not fed this centre, but have worn it out by excitement and over stimulating foods, and finally seek a stimulant stronger than foods can supply."

BOBBED FRESHMEN BAFFLE HAZERS

Pittsburgh, Oct. 6.—Bobbed hair has halted the initiation of freshman girls at the Carnegie Institute of Technology here. In past years the chief hazing custom has been to compel first-year girls to wear their hair in plaits and in other quaint ways, with ribbons predominating.

That custom is passe, sophomore girls declare, because of the popularity of "the bob," and they are in a quandary to find a substitute.

FARMER REFUSES TO SELL ON SUNDAY

Nashville, Ind., Oct. 6.—John Dobbs has a fine peach crop. Motorists who drive by the Dobbs farm in large numbers on Sunday are tempted by the luscious peaches and attempt to make purchases. But Dobbs is not tempted.

"No, sir," he says. "I won't sell peaches or anything else on Sunday for all the money in the world. There are not enough automobiles in the world to haul money enough to get me to sell peaches on Sunday. It would be wrong."

REVIVAL OF RIVER TRANSPORT SEEN

Fort Madison, Ia., Oct. 6.—Use of the Mississippi River for transportation is being revived by the paper mills here, which are renewing the bringing of baled straw to their plants by barge down the river. The paper companies made almost no use of the river for a number of years but in the past twenty-four months more than 50 per cent of the straw from which they manufacture paper has been brought to their plants by barge, and officials of the plant said it a much larger use of river transportation within a few years.

BULLET STOPS RACING YOUTHS

GERMANY SAFE AS A REPUBLIC, SAYS LAEMMLE

Monarchists Have No Chance to Succeed in Attempt at Revolution

By CARL LAEMMLE,
President Universal Pictures Corporation.

Written before the advent of the dictatorships in Berlin and Munich.

The fear that Germany may in the near future return to monarchism is not justified. The republic, as a form of government, is safe. It would be safe, even in the hands of the extreme radicals. If the little group of monarchists and implacable opponents of the republic have had at any time a chance to succeed that chance [illegible] good, since "Big Business," has [illegible]

NEED PLENTY OF IRON.

This group of captains of industry, to hold responsible in the labor agitators and communists, who never tire of pointing out that they live in luxury and hide their fortunes abroad while the masses go hungry.

CLASH IS EXPECTED.

The general belief is that the extreme socialists or communists, as they are called, will soon clash in the near hand. Then will come a clash that must lead to civil war.

The socialists dare no longer common cause with the moneyed bourgeois parties because the radical tendency exceeds far [illegible] their own adherents demands a government solely for the benefit of the laboring classes, to the laboring classes all of the laboring classes.

The workingman believes he can obtain food for himself and his family only by force, as all other means have proven fu

Even the large and important trade unions, such as the metal and textile workers, heretofore moderate socialistic, have gone over to the communistic wing at least 75 per cent, because their wages have failed to keep pace with the price of necessities and their families have begun to feel the pangs of hunger.

PLAN FOR NEW RULE.

The Communists, as I have been told by some of their leaders, lawyers, editors members of Parliament and laboring men, do not want a communistic form of government at present. They realize it would fail after a short reign.

They want an all workingmen's government in which only the head and hand workers have seat and voice and which is to be for the masses only.

In hundreds of meetings held all over the country recently every orator demanded confiscation of all the food in stores, warehouses and private homes, and distribution to those who have none.

That clash between those who have and those who have not will come sooner or later, is unavoidable. The German may be satisfied, once he has emptied the pantries and storehouses, but the conflagration called to life when he starts on the road of confiscation would spread to other countries.

Street every semblance of the grill ary has disappeared and the many sumptuous barracks are used for officers of the government or youth of Germany has turned to sport. The wish to keep the body constant training in uppermost in the minds of young men and women.

They are no longer satisfied with gymnastics and the turnerhall, which was once considered a sort of preliminary education to the military. Tennis, football, cross-country walks by hundreds of young people who go on these long marches with bundle on back, the various Winter sports are practised by the many, not as the case used to be by only the children of the wealthy.

Thus the coming generation, as far as it remains alive in spite of the ravages of undernourishment and lack of food, intends to keep in training and in trim for all occasions, even though the musket and sabre have been thrown into the discard.

FLIGHT OF THE GERMANS.

How far the Germans have sunk may be gathered from a comparative statement which I have asked the statistician of the American Relief Committee in Berlin to prepare for me.

In June, 1923, the untrained laborer received 24.8 per cent, the skilled working man 19.2 per cent, the higher salaried man 9.6 per cent of the income they had enjoyed before the war. Since then, due to the enormous falling of the mark, these incomes have further decreased at least 60 per cent and prices have risen more than 300 per cent.

Behind these figures lies the picture of a nation driven into the abyss. The German people as a rule will not die, even if millions should die of hunger, and untold suffering should be visited upon children and the old and sick. But even the stolid, placid, optimistic German who always lives in the hope that "some wonder will happen," may change his nature under these extraordinary conditions and become the leader of the army of unrest.

MOTHERS STUDY ART WITH THEIR CHILDREN

Business men, mothers with their children and teachers made up an unusual class in painting and outdoor sketching at the Boston University Art Department which held its first session yesterday afternoon at No. 304 Bay State road.

During pleasant weather the class will spend the afternoons sketching the Charles River and other outdoor scenery near the school. On dark days and in the Winter they will paint from still life and learn portraiture.

The theft was committed in daylight after a lock on the city jail had been broken by Johnson.

FUGITIVE WILL FACE TRIAL AT WIFE'S URGING

Pleadings of Indian Princess Result in Doctor's Return to United States

Philadelphia, Oct. 6.—A wealthy Indian princess of the once powerful Mosquito Kingdom of Central America, for whom he found prestrare with Jesse in the jungle, became the wife and the confidence of Dr. Chester Cooper Spear for thirteen years a fugitive from justice in Central and South America.

Urged by her to clear his name of a charge of murder, he has just surrendered to the police at Camden. He declares he can prove he shot in self defence when he killed Edward Lawrence in 1910.

It was while he was a physician for a mahogany company that he met Mercedes Paiami, on the Wanks River, in what was formerly a part of the powerful Mosquito Kingdom, which Great Britain recognized in 1867 and which is now a part of Nicaragua. She was a great grandniece of Chief Andrew, and direct descendant of the first king of the Mosquito Coast.

WAS LEFT AN ORPHAN.

When she was thirteen years old her father died. Five years later her mother, delirious with fever, wandered into the jungle at night and was killed by a panther, and it was in the jungle that she was found by the fugitive physician and nursed back to health.

With her husband she traveled over every country of South America and Central America, and by her gentle urgings in time persuaded him of the wisdom of returning to his country and surrendering himself, as an effort to clear his name.

Dr Spear fled the country on September 10, 1910, after he was alleged to have shot Edward Lawrence, who, he claimed, [illegible]

INTEGRITY Studebaker SERVICE

STUDEBAKER COMMENTS
On Four-Wheel Brakes

There is little difference mechanically between two-wheel brake and four-wheel brake mechanisms.

Front-wheel brakes are merely added capacity, of conventional design. All four brakes are operated by the foot pedal.

The emergency brakes on rear wheels or transmission, operated by the hand lever, are retained in all four-wheel brake systems.

Controversy already exists between four-wheel brake advocates as to the relative merit of external or internal types of brake pressure on front wheels.

The duplication of parts, added weight, and increased friction of four-wheel brakes are common knowledge.

If four-wheel brakes were necessary, safe, and simple in operation, their existence would be justified, even with these impediments.

The factory makes proper adjustment of clearances between brake linings and drums.

After the factory ships the car, its responsibility ceases for brake adjustments, and the responsibility is shifted to the owner.

Electric starters, battery ignition, and vacuum tanks are acknowledged developments in the evolution of the automobile. They are built complete, encased in housings by the factory, are practically automatic and require few adjustments. Four-wheel brakes are in an entirely different category.

Numerous dealers and factory branch salesmen selling four-wheel brake cars, are already advising buyers that the front brakes may be disconnected, if they are not wanted. This would mean, of course, that the extra weight and impediments would be carried around uselessly.

Other front-wheel brakes are adjusted for such weak pressure that they cannot lock the front wheels, and the brakes are thus merely camouflage.

Four-wheel brakes will cause more trouble and accidents in a month than they will prevent in a year.

In fact, the Rolls-Royce Company states that "they show such decidedly dangerous disadvantages that they are considered unsafe to put in the hands of the general public, and are not nearly the equal of the powerful, efficient, lasting, and easily equalized brake design now employed in our design."

Four-wheel brakes have been a bone of contention in England since 1910, and yet today only 5 or 6 of the 150 odd English makes of cars use them at all. Several manufacturers use them as optional equipment, or furnish them on one of their models only.

Adherents of four-wheel brakes claim that they (1) permit quicker stopping and (2) prevent skidding. These are the only claims made for four-wheel brakes. With front-wheel brakes fully applied, quicker stopping is possible. This is not denied.

That quick stopping which locks the front wheels is an advantage, is vigorously denied. Such stopping is positively dangerous, because steering control is immediately lost.

The claim that four-wheel brakes prevent skidding and sliding is denied. No matter what kind of brakes are used, skidding will occur if wheels are locked before the momentum of the car is offset by the resistance of the road or pavement, whether dry or wet.

Skidding on wet pavements can be reduced to the minimum, with either two- or four-wheel brakes, only by slowing down speed and gentle brake pressure with clutch engaged.

Disadvantages of Four-Wheel Brakes

Against the only advantage (?) of four-wheel brakes, namely, quicker stopping, there are six serious disadvantages which make them mechanically impracticable, dangerous, uncomfortable, and expensive to owners, as follows:

1. Danger of Accidents. With permission, we quote from a recent circular of the Rolls-Royce Company to their dealers, upon which we cannot improve:

> "Basically, the fault with front-wheel brakes lies in the danger of front-wheel skids, which are uncontrollable and consequently vastly more dangerous than a rear-wheel skid.
> "It must be appreciated, first of all, that for their ability to steer the car the front wheels depend on their rolling motion. When front wheels cease to roll they lose all power to steer the car, which slides straight ahead on a flat road, or into the ditch if on a crowned or cambered road.
> "When the brakes are used in an emergency it is of primary importance that the direction of the car should be under control; that is, that the car can be steered from the time that the brakes are applied until it is brought to a complete stop.
> "When an obstacle suddenly presents itself (as in night driving) the driver's instinct is to immediately apply the brakes as hard as possible.
> "If, under these conditions, the front wheels are suddenly locked, disaster may overtake the driver, through inability to control the car's direction, even though it may stop before meeting the obstacle.
> "In traffic driving the ability to dodge—to control the direction of the car—is of almost equal importance with the ability to stop.
> "On a wet or sprinkled city street, granting that the front-wheel brakes were perfectly equalized, the car would slide straight ahead unable to take advantage of traffic conditions, either right or left.
> "If the brakes were not perfectly equalized, immediately the pressure was applied, the front wheels would take on a skid, which would be uncontrollable, in whichever direction the equalization of the brakes was faulty.
> "In traffic driving, under most favorable conditions (perfectly equalized brakes and dry pavement) a sudden application of the brakes checks the car so precipitately that cars following have been known to crash into the car ahead, causing a rear end wreck through not having stopping room and time.
> "It is, of course, obvious that front-wheel brakes present double the difficulty of keeping the brakes properly equalized.
> "Aside from the above apparent defects in front or four-wheel braking, there is the stiffening effect on the steering to take into consideration when the brakes are applied, and the drag on the steering unless the braking effects on both wheels is absolutely equalized. This, of itself, constitutes a serious disadvantage reflected in the handling of the car."

2. Adjustments by Owner. Brakes must be properly adjusted, lubricated, and kept free from dirt, gravel, and foreign substances, to prevent unequal pressure of brakes and possible locking of front wheels. The burden of this responsibility rests on the owner, not on the factory.

3. Added Impediments and Lubrication. Four-wheel brakes double the number of parts in the braking mechanism, add about one hundred pounds of unsprung weight to the front end of the car, and create from twenty to thirty additional places (mostly inaccessible) requiring lubrication which must be applied by hand.

4. Decreased Car Efficiency. The added weight, extra parts, and increased friction resulting from four-wheel brakes decrease to some degree the efficiency of the car. Poorer acceleration, reduced hill-climbing ability, and increased gasoline consumption result.

5. Harder Steering and Control. The increase in unsprung weight, added parts, and friction necessarily increase the strength required to steer the car and to operate the brakes.

6. Expense of Maintenance. Extra service work in repairing, adjusting, and relining brakes puts the car in the shop oftener and increases the expense of maintenance.

Patent Situation

Four-wheel brakes have been in existence for about twenty years, during which time thousands of patents have been taken out in Europe and the United States, many of which have expired, and it is very doubtful if there are any basic patents preventing the use of four-wheel brakes.

European Experience

European manufacturers have experimented with four-wheel brakes for two decades. English manufacturers generally refuse to use them, although there are a few exceptions.

French manufacturers use them more generally, but many cars are equipped with "servo mechanisms," which are an added attachment intended to prevent locking of front wheels, insure equalization, ease the pedal pressure, etc., but this device introduces further complications of weight, lubrication and expense.

Trade Authorities

AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRIES—July 12, 1923

> "In some cases the layout is such that the act of steering tends to release the front-wheel brake, rendering it less effective when the wheels are cramped. If, with this arrangement, steering is made harder, or the brakes less effective on a curve, or when the vehicle must make a sudden turn—as it must often do in an emergency—there is grave reason to doubt whether the braking is any safer with four- than with two-wheel brakes."

MOTOR WORLD—June 6, 1923

> "If necessary precautions are not taken, skidding is liable to be more frequent and more serious than with rear brakes only."

Studebaker's Position

Studebaker research and engineering departments have been studying, experimenting with, and testing four-wheel brake mechanisms for two years.

These tests merely convince us that four-wheel brakes are unnecessary, mechanically impracticable, and dangerous in the hands of unskilled drivers.

The 1924 model Studebaker cars are equipped with brakes on the rear wheels only. The foot pedal operates the external contracting brakes and easily locks both wheels.

The hand lever operates the internal expanding brakes, and likewise locks the wheels easily.

The foot brakes are used in driving, and the hand brakes to hold the car still when parked on grades, also in emergencies, if necessary.

Studebaker brakes are safe, simple, and practicable. There are no more reliable brakes in use on any automobiles.

The 1924 model Studebaker cars are not, and will not be, equipped with four-wheel brakes

SMASH TO FENCE KEEPS TRIBE OUT OF LAST PLACE

Farewell Game of Season in Boston Proves Magnet for No More Than 500 Spectators

By EDDIE HURLEY

The smouldering baseball embers of 1923 died out for keeps at Braves Field yesterday, and today Boston breathes easier. Never did the embers threaten to spread into what might be termed a baseball conflagration.

The curtain fell on a season of dark brown baseball, and without exaggerating a particle, a tremendous crowd of 500 of the bravest stormed the portals to witness the farewell baseball struggle of the year.

The fight which started last Ap✦ril was not in vain.

The Braves fooled the wise fans. They didn't finish last. They escaped by the proverbial eyelash.

Twas 3:45, in the 14th inning of an unexpected long struggle that the Braves clinched seventh place and made the cellar safe for the Phillies.

WON TWO GAMES

Yes, indeed, twice in a row the Braves doubled the Phils, the first time by the score of 4 to 1 in the 14th and the second time by the count of 4 to 1 in an abbreviated contest of four and a half innings.

John Phelan McInnis, alias "Stuffy," once a member of the famous $100,000 infield of Connie Mack spattered the hopes of the Phillies of crawling out of last place in the opening ill.

It was a smash to the scoreboard for three bases that made seventh place safe for the Tribe. And McInnis' life-saving salute followed a base on balls to Al Nixon.

"Twas quite a ball game, that opening battle in spite of the fact that the dyed in the wool fans seemed to have other places to go.

PITCHING DUEL

Jess Barnes and Jimmy Ring hooked up in a duel and although there was considerable scoring early in the game each settled down and mowed down the opponents in rare form in the late innings.

The game might have terminated in the usual six innings only for Earl Smith. Earl clipped a drive to the flagpole, but he refused to hustle. In fact he strolled around the sacks nonchalantly and then was nipped at the plate. The blow scored two of his mates however.

BARNES SOME CLOUTER.

Not only did Barnes do considerable pitching, holding the Phils to ten scattered blows in the fourteen frames, but he played the role of slugger-in-chief with the ash. Four solid clouts out of five trips to the plate was his share of the farewell performance.

Al Nixon and McInnis cloured out three each, while Holke led the Phils with three sizzling shots.

After escaping last place by the victory in the opening game, most of the varsity retired and the tribal scrubs were given a chance.

At times the scrubs seemed the better aggregation, and it didn't take 'em long to take the measure of the Phils. Stuffy McInnis retired after collecting a lucky triple in the opening frame and Johnny Cooney finished the game at first.

RECRUITS SHOW 'EM.

Connaughton, former Fordham catcher, and Joe Batchelder, Pittsfield southpaw, did the battery work while the infield was composed of recruits.

And they turned in an excellent job while they performed. They knocked "Lefty" Weinert out of the box in short order and coralled the contest early.

Bob Emerich turned in a couple of rare outfield stunts, while Cansineau belted out a brace of hits in his two times at the plate.

But no tears were shed at the finish and now Boston can lay back to await the dawn of another baseball year, which can't be any worse than that which finished yesterday, no matter what happens.

Because there is a "get there first" craze among the riders, jockeys on British race courses are becoming a menace to other riders as well as to their mounts.

Sam Jones Is to Hear Call

It seems to be a foregone conclusion that Sam Jones will pitch the first game for the Yankees. Jones is a curve ball expert and carries a wise old head on his shoulders.

His change of pace delivery has been hard to beat this year and Huggins is confident that he can trim the Giants.

If Jones pitches and wins the opening game, the Yankees will enter the subsequent contests with greater confidence. But if Jones loses, the moral effect on the other Yankee batsmen may prove beneficial for McGraw probably will put Art Nehf against Jones in an effort to reduce the hitting of the Huggmen to a minimum. The first victory means a lot.

MR. MUTT TOPS MONEY-GETTERS

New York, Oct. 4.—The Fall meeting of the Queens County Jockey Club did not quite measure up with previous events in point of purse value, fast performances and total number of starters.

The sum of $132,347 was the amount awarded to winning horses in a program of thirteen days and seventy-eight races an increase of one day over same meeting last year, yet slightly over $3,000 in purse amount, while the extra six races increased the number of starters by only eighteen.

As was the case last year, new comers carried off bracket honors in features as well as purse events, with the result that only five horses were double winners or one less than last year. The daily purse average was over $10,000 with a per race average of close to $1,700. Mutuels were 7½ per cent of total number starters shared in the division of purses or 232 in all made up of 164 horses by count of which 72 topped summary lists.

By winning the Junior Championship, H. C. Fisher's 19,200 yearling from the Saratoga sale, topped the winning list besides gaining honors as season's first two-year-old to travel over the mile route at a clip faster than 1.39, while Rancocas Stable's Knobbie came back with a rush, accounted for two features and secured second position.

The winning group raced under the colors of ninety-seven owners, headed by the Rancocas stable, of whom fifty-six were also winners. The following tables contain the most important racing statistics of the Aqueduct meeting with a list of winning horses and owners:

MAINE PREP SCHOOL ELEVENS ARE STRONG

The Coburn Classical Institute eleven of Waterville is heading straight for another Maine prep school title the last one of which was won when "Ginger" Fraser held the coaching reins at the Waterville secondary school.

Coach "Ike" Haines, present mentor at Coburn, has had a fine squad to work with in preparation for the early season games and that squad has shown plenty of promise.

An eleven that should give the Fine Tree State prep school teams a great battle in every game is to it making at Coburn. An auspicious opening was made a week ago when the Colby seconds were taken into camp in what was termed an upset. Coburn has a hard schedule but a grudmted one so that Coach Haines will have plenty of opportunity to whip the players into shape as the season progresses.

Assisting with the coaching at the prep school is Grenville Vale, sterling Colby half back of the past few seasons. Vale is still a student at Colby but was signed early in the fall to assist at Coburn.

His work has proved invaluable as Coach Haine's hardest job was in the rebuilding of his backfield. Graduation played havoc with the ranks of the backfield veterans of a year ago.

SHANAHAN IS STAR.

Just enough players were left however to form a strong nucleus so that another smashing fast, strong eleven will be seen in action for Coburn.

Shanahan, Correy and Western are three stellar backfield performers upon whom hinges much of the success that should come Coburn's way before the end of the season.

"Hymie" Shanahan, brother of the Colby baseball star, has been one of the brightest athletic lights at Coburn the past two seasons. He will be used again in the fullback berth.

Flanking him on either side will be Correy and Western, two new players who called Needham, Mass., their their alma mater before entering Coburn. Both boys are clever.

TWO NEW QUARTERBACKS.

Waterville fans expect Western to give Shanahan a run for the spotlight honors. The Needham boy is one of the best running backs seen at Coburn for many a moon. His ability at sidestepping and whirling through a broken field is uncanny.

For the quarterback job Coach Haines has a pair of green players. Both have won their spurs at their respective high schools but are new to the ways of prep school football.

Grady has had first call for the job lately and works well with the backs. Gorman is the other quarterback. In reality there is little to choose between the two.

THREE LINE VETERANS

Only three veterans are left on the line, Fiedler, Drummond and Adams. The latter named player was shifted from center to tackle. Fiedler plays an end position while Drummond is a guard.

Matiski plays the other end with Hammond, a former Arlington, Mass. High School player, in at the center job. Lovell is the other tackle and Leary the other guard.

The new material shaped up well, in the Colby second game and with experience should fill the gaps in fine style.

High school and prep school football in the Pine Tree State is due for a big season.

Westbrook Seminary has a fine eleven and one that should give the other Maine prep school teams plenty to worry about when fighting for the State title. That fact was attested to when Westbrook held Colby to a 19 to 0 score.

Hebron is also in a fair way to cause upsets in the days when the southsayers start picking the likely champions. The big green team is expected to live up to its name. Although many holes were filled with new men the Hebron eleven looms up as a possible contender for the State title.

Portland, South Portland and Deering are all set to battle for gridiron honors. Deering looks like the best city champion.

FIRST DEFEAT FOR THE H. H. S. BOYS IN 3 YEARS

Won 43 Straight Games, but Jack MacDonald's Fighting Machine Checked the Victorious Streak by the Score of 13 to 6 at the Malden Stadium Yesterday

By F. C. MATZEK

A champion was dethroned at the Malden Stadium yesterday afternoon before 15,000, when a fighting Malden line outguessed and outplayed Haverhill's High's great backfield to win from the Merrimac City eleven, 13 to 6.

A sad crowd of Haverhill rooters left Malden last night, for they had watched their team come out a loser for the first time in 43 starts. Malden tripped up the team that was recognized as the schoolboy champions of the East a year ago.

Malden made happy by the victory gave vent to their joy in every conceivable way. A snake dance through the streets of Malden was the feature. Coach Jack MacDonald of the winning team, received the congratulations of the fans and was lifted to their shoulders.

Haverhill expected to see their champions ride roughshod over "Little Malden," but the Fatsos had it and ruled otherwise, and that Flste team showed real fight, breaking up un Haverhill's plays so effectively that the work of the Malden line overshadowed even the sterling play of Ben Batchelder, Haverhill's biggest threat.

The invaders entered confident that Batchelder would romp across the home town's goal line at will. Batchelder gained many yards, flashing up with many brilliant dashes but none of them were over 15 yards.

It was evident that Malden had been told to keep a sharp eye on the Haverhill halfback. Numerous times he was stopped in his tracks and on a few occasions he was thrown for a loss.

Melanson, Malden's slashing fullback, was the hero of the contest if any one of the Malden eleven can be picked out for that role.

Scarcely three minutes after the opening whistle Malden scored seven points, enough to give them the victory. It was by the forward pass route and Melanson was on the throwing end of the play.

HOLDEN SCORES

Holden took the pass and crossed the Haverhill goal line for the touchdown, and added the extra point by a placement kick.

In the second period a beautiful end run by Melanson netted Malden the second touchdown. Time and again the Malden fullback broke away for long gains that placed the ball in Haverhill's territory.

Towne, left tackle for the losing team, was in every play towering over the Malden line like a giant. His value to the Haverhill team can hardly be computed.

'Twas Towne who broke through to throw a Malden back for a loss on more than one occasion.

Shaftmaster, right end for the Haverhill eleven, also is deserving of mention. The shifty end was responsible for Haverhill's lone tally.

He took Batchelder's long forward in the second period and carried it to the Malden three yard line. Two line plunges by Batchelder and the ball was over.

Severance, the little lad calling signals for the invaders, proved an elusive and cagey broken field runner. His straight arm warded off more than one Malden tackler.

HALFIN STARS.

An individual star picked out here and there all deserve especial credit, but to the victors belong the spoils and Malden's great line earned that honor.

Charlie Holden at left end, Captain Halpin at centre and O'Connor at right tackle were the backbone of the Malden line. Satenstein, Marshall, Buckley, Goodrich and Gitter played like champions, and in outclassing the titleholders proved that they are in the championship class.

Holden carried the ball at times for long gains on end runs and on the defense was in the game every minute.

Jackson, at quarterback for the winners, picked his plays with uncanny judgment, keeping one step ahead of the Haverhill players on almost every play.

Shields, Payne and eCush made up a splendid scoring quartet that as a whole outplayed the backs of the Haverhill aggregation.

In the opening frame a break gave Malden an opportunity to score and it took it.

Melanson kicked off to Fontaine who ran five yards to his own 15 yard line. When line plays failed to gain Batchelder dropped back and kicked the ball off-side at his own 37 yard line.

Melanson made a 10-yard gain around his own right end, and a five yard penalty for off-side on Haverhill placed the ball on the 28 yard mark. Melanson tossed a neat pass for 15 yards to Holden who romped across Haverhill's goal line.

A forward pass from midfield, Batchelder to Shaftmaster, gained 28 yards to put the ball on the Malden three yard line. Batchelder proved his worth as a line plunger by taking the ball over through the center of the Malden line.

BAD PASS.

A bad pass from the center spoiled Haverhill's chances to annex the extra point.

Another Malden forward paved the way for their second touchdown. Melanson to Shiels was the way it went and when the dust cleared away the ball was reposing on the 15 yard stripe in Haverhill's territory.

On the next play Melanson dropped back as if to kick and on a sweeping end run eluded half of the Haverhill team to cross the goal line. That happened in the second period also.

A rugged battle waged back and forth throughout the second half without either team getting within scoring distance of the other's goal.

BOSTON GIRL WINS HONORS AT KNOX

Edith Mabel Escott of No. 11 Frawley street, has been awarded several honors by the faculty of Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., for excellence in scholarship.

Miss Escott, a senior, is one of 29 to be so honored.

THOMSON SIGNS AT YALE FOR TWO YEARS

Earl J. Thomson, holder of the world record of 14 2-5 seconds for the 120-yard high hurdles, has signed a three-year contract to coach the Yale track squad.

Big Fellows Go Fine on Links

The brilliant victory of Maxwell Marston in the national amateur golf tournament at Flossmoor is a clear demonstration of the fact that the bigger the player is physically the better are his chances of surviving in title competition; also that when a man gets too big he is definitely out of it.

It was a bad year for the pigskin. Players like Jimmie Manion and others who scale under 170 pounds had no chance against big fellows like Sweetser, Marston and Gardner, who can stand on the tee and knock the pill three hundred yards down the glen.

YALE CUBS AT EXETER OCT. 13

Exeter, N. H., Oct. 6.—The Yale freshmen come to Exeter Oct. 13 as opponents to the football eleven, and should master Exeter's light, and inexperienced players.

Coach Blake, and his assistant, Eli Cutler, have worked hard during the week and have taught much football, but the line and end proposition is what is worrying at present.

The end candidates are, William Downey of Somerville, Richard O'Connell of Somerville, Maxwell, Swede of Norristown, Pa., and a younger brother of "Dick" Lumen, now an end candidate at Yale.

The two lines which Assistant Coach Cutler is working on are, Griggs and Chase, tackles; Weiner and Foster, guards; and Capt. Charlesworth, center, as the first choice, and Gurney and French tackles; Tripp and Bell, guards, and Schaub, center.

These candidates for the most part are members of last year's squad and several of them played on the second eleven, the new material this year being the most unpromising for many years.

Weiner a former Malden, Mass., High guard looks the best of the new men in the line, although Chase is a heavyweight and may develop.

The backs are husky and should come fast. Robert Marshall of Somerville, Mass., and Charles Elliott of Brookline, Mass., full back, and quarter, respectively are products of last year, and are working better than at this stage of the season a year ago, while Wilson, Lafscott, Cook and Cole were on the squad last year.

Brady, Clinton, Crosby and Ball are new candidates, all being promising.

The Exeter-Yale freshmen contest is an annual one, being played many years, alternating between Exeter and New Haven. There were no breaks during the war as the freshmen had teams.

Past scores are: 1915, Exeter 13, Yale 0; 1916, Yale 28, Exeter 7; 1917, Yale 14, Exeter 0; 1918, Yale 28, Exeter 0; 1919, Yale 14, Exeter 0; 1920, Yale 21, Exeter 0; 1921, Yale 7, Exeter 0; 1922, Exeter 27, Yale 0.

"Dick" Wortham, last year's Exeter guard and first baseman on the nine will probably be with the Eli player when they come to Exeter as he was preparing for Yale when here.

Exeter expects the hardest game of the season when they line up against the Harvard freshmen at Cambridge Oct. 20 for they will have as opponents Miller, last year's Worcester back who made such gains through the Crimson line here; "Izzy" Zarakow, last year's half, and Leo Daley, formerly of Andover.

"Tom" Driscoll, last year's captain, will probably face his old school eleven when the Tiger Cubs come here from Princeton Oct. 27 for their game with Exeter.

Names of Riders on the Program

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 6.—There will be one innovation that the patrons of Laurel will welcome in particular.

For the first time on an Eastern track the riders will be printed on the programs, along with the horses, their weight, equipment and post positions, thus giving all information needed without the trouble of looking up such details and jotting them down.

This custom has long been in force in Kentucky, and during the Summer was carried out on some of the Canadian tracks, and it is quite possible that it will be taken up generally.

CHERRY PIE HAS THE BEST MILE

If future records of the Belmont Park track ever equal the speed performances of the 1923 Spring and Fall meetings, it may be safe to predict that it will fall short in one point at least, namely, the addition of new miles in 1:38 or faster, the total number as well as speed average.

From the entrance of the Westchester track into the metropolitan racing circuit to the close of 1922 a total of sixty-seven mile dashes in 1.38 or faster were recorded, to on were at the latter clip, with two faster than 1.36, against the former three by Anbarons in 1.35 2-5, Man War and Sneb Snd each in 1.36 4-5; Cherry Pie topping the list with 1.35 2-5 and Little Chief in line with third best in 1.35 4-5.

The following table contains the names of new additions to four miles in twenty-three performers, of which Grey Lag, Little Chief, Friesate, Jesuitcrom and June Grass are repeaters:

BANTAMS TRAIL JOHNNY DUNDEE

New York, Oct. 6.—Johnny Dundee, whose life has been just one disappointment after another since he won the featherweight title from Eugene Criqui, is now being pursued by two youngsters of the lightam class.

Joe Lynch and Carl Duane both figure they have a chance with the Scoth Wop and are clamoring wildly for a shot at his title. Dundee has given away weight on many occasions but it is doubtful if he has ever met many men of lower poundage than Jerome, who is considered a very fair puncher, he at least is capable of giving Dundee a stiff argument if he cannot hang the defeat tag on Johnny.

Lynch also thinks he would prove a worthy antagonist for the holder of the featherweight title and if he is successful in his match against Joe Burman, wants to meet Dundee sixty days after this fight.

Lynch, by the way, is taking the little setto with Burman a great deal lighter than many folks imagine. Lynch and Burman have met five times and although the newspapers have been divided as to the winner, Lynch believes that he had an edge in all the engagements.

RUMOR LITTLE ROCK TO SELL FRANCHISE

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 6.—In connection with the transfer of games scheduled for Little Rock to Montgomery and other cities, because of poor attendance in the Arkansas city, comes a roundabout story that the move is preliminary to sale of the Little Rock franchise to Montgomery for a sum said to be upwards of $30,000, and that Bob Allen will arrange to place Little Rock in the new Class B league to be formed by consolidation of Western Association and Southwestern League territory. There is no confirmation, but the story sounds plausible.

TENDLER AND BROWN TRAIN FOR BATTLE

Philadelphia, Oct. 6.—Lew Tendler and Harry (Kid) Brown, former stablemates, are training hard for the main event of eight rounds at the Ice Palace, October 15. Danny Leonard, Charley Rosenberg, who also are under the same management as Brown, will meet good boys in two of the other numbers.

BOXING CARNIVAL IN VIEW THIS WEEK FOR BOSTON FANS

FOUR CLUBS TO STAGE PROFESSIONAL BOUTS

One Amateur Organization Will Be in the Field With a Show—Champion Harry Greb and Johnny Wilson Show at Rival Clubs

By S. J. MAHONEY.

The greatest boxing carnival that has been arranged for the fans of this city will be seen this week. Two champions, one ex-champion and several ex-amateur champions will display their wares.

Up at the Arena the fireworks will be launched tomorrow night. An all-star show will be given there. The colored light heavyweight champion, Battling McCreary, will defend his title in the St. Botolph club house ring.

His opponent will be Clem Johnson, a husky colored boxer from New York. Then there is a bout between Benny Valger of New York, who formerly held an amateur title, and Joe Curry, the New Haven featherweight who on numerous occasions made good here.

Lew Paluso and his brother also are listed to meet opponents at the Arena A. A. shows.

WALKER AND JULIAN.

The following night the trend of travel will be in the direction of the Grand Opera House, where Archie Walker, a former amateur champion, will have an argument, which is limited to 10 rounds, with Tony Julian of Brockton.

Julian has a decision to his credit over Johnny Dundee, and the ex-amateur champion for that reason has been particularly anxious to engage his attention in a ring.

Walker says if he can score a victory Tuesday over the Brockton shoemaker he will be in line to get a match with Dundee at Madison square Garden, New York.

An exceptionally attractive preliminary card has been arranged. Frank Mezna of South Boston, always a great favorite, is paired with Lefty Williams of Lowell; Eddie Sardello is slated to oppose Joe Mooney, sturdy Charlestown boxer, and Jimmy Stanton is booked to meet Frank Hobart.

There is considerable speculating on the battle between Walker and Julian, local fans favoring the New York boy, while the Brockton sports are confident Julian will win the verdict.

AMATEUR SHOW WEDNESDAY.

After the two pro shows are out of the way the St. Botolph Athletic Society of the West End will give a series of bouts at Commercial Hall on Green street.

As the tournament is a popular prize affair, it will have an entirely different class to support it than the pro shows. The boys who can scrape four bits together will flock to the Bowdoin Square rendezvous to watch the series of battles that will be staged there.

If the entry list means anything, the club is sure to uphold the reputation it has established for providing great fights.

GREB AND LOUGHRAN.

Harry Greb, the middleweight champion of the world, will be with us Thursday night. It will be his initial appearance here as champion. He will face Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia in the main bout at the Faneuil A. C. show in Mechanics Hall.

The latter, so far as Boston fans are concerned, is an unknown quantity, for he never displayed his wares here, but to Harry Greb he is one of the toughest in the boxing game.

Loughran has given Greb plenty of trouble in battles at Philadelphia and Jersey City, and Manager Singer, Jimmy Mason, reluctantly accepted the bout here.

Greb has distinguished himself in every event in which he engaged in this city. He is a great fighter and he proved that in a most convincing manner the night he fought Bob Roper.

No one gave him a chance before he entered the ring that particular evening, but the bout was under way but a short time when Greb demonstrated to the vast crowd that he was the master of Roper.

It was but a short time prior that Roper carried the town by storm by outpointing Bob Martin, the A. E. F. champion, who had scored two wins here within a few weeks.

According to word from Jimmy Mason, his manager, the champion is in excellent condition. His bout last Thursday night with Jimmy Darcy was but a workout for Harry, and he will come here for next Thursday night's battle prepared to force the fighting from the outset.

WILSON AT SUFFOLK A. C.

The second fight of the week at the Suffolk A. C. will have for principles Johnny Wilson, the ex-champion middleweight and George Robinson of Cambridge.

Everyone is looking for a great fight. Their thriller of a few years ago has not been forgotten by the fans, and the devotees of the sport are looking forward to a repetition of that encounter.

If Wilson wins there is a possibility he will be matched either here or in New York with Harry Greb for a return battle.

For this reason ther is unusual interst in the outcome of the Wilson-Robinson bout. It is a great holiday attraction and there will be a large number of out-of-town fans who will stop over from the Greb-Loughran fight to see if Wilson can eliminate Robinson and earn the right to another combat with Greb.

The preliminary bill is an attractive one. The Suffolk A. C. has done remarkably well in this respect to date, and has given the fans some great battles between ambitious youngsters.

SHOW AT LYNN CLUB

In view of the carnival here in town this week, the directors of the Casino A. C. have a lot of courage to stage another Fall and Winter boxing campaign.

They are getting under way tomorrow night with a card they feel is a real attraction. Bob Conlon of Charlestown and Jack Dillon of Woburn will meet in the main bout.

Eddie Polo of Waterville, Me., and Tony Baxter of Providence will meet in the semi-final; Bee Williams of Worcester will meet Frankie Buff of Charlestown, and Terry McManus of Roxbury and Jimmy Smith of Brockton will mix things in the opening event.

AMATEURS AT MILFORD

Amateurs will have a session to night at Milford. A fine series of competitions have been placed on the card for the members of the Pastime A. S. These should furnish plenty of action for the up-State fans.

The amateur game has become immensely popular at Milford and a large number of boys have been developed in that city and at Worcester recently.

EXETER OPENS WITH VICTORY

Exeter, N. H., Oct. 6.—Exeter won the opening football game here today from Dartmouth Freshmen, 7-0. McPhail scored the only touchdown in the first period, and Captain Charlesworth kicked the goal.

Dartmouth never threatened Exeter's goal line, but resorted to the forward pass in the last period. Linscott, Elliott and Crosby were Exeter's chief ground gainers, and Cronin and Shea for Dartmouth. Score:

HORSEMEN SHRIEK FOR BETTER STABLES

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 6.—There is much dissatisfaction among horse owners about conditions provided for them while the track owners inform the public—by press agents—of their beautiful track, stand and surrounings. They complain that the stabling accomodation at most of the Canadian tracks is a disgrace and the wonder is that not more horses are lost through sickness contracted in stables [illegible] sanitary.

FIGHTING AT RIVAL CLUBS IN HUB

JOIE RAY HAS RUN 46 MILES UNDER 4:21

No other runner in the annals of sport, either in the United States or in any other country of the world, has run a mile under 4:21 as many times as has Joie W. Ray, the wonderful little runner of the Illinois Athletic club. Ray has established the remarkable record of running forty-six mile races in 4:20 or better since winning the mile championship for the first time back in 1915.

Ray has won the National A. A. U. one-mile championship seven times and only once did he run the distance slower than 4:20, and that was in 1915, when he won his first national title. On that occasion he ran the eight furlongs in 4:23 1-5, but he had the satisfaction of beating in that time two world's record holders, namely, Norman Taber, holder of the world's record for the mile, and Abel Kivlat, three times winner of the national mile championship and at that time holder of the world's 1,500-meter record.

In 1916 Ray elected to run in the national five-mile championship to let Ivan A. Myer, a team mate, win the mile title. The following year he was returned the winner in 4:18, and his winning times each year since were 1918, 4:20; 1919, 4:14 2-5; 1920, 4:16 1-5; 1921, 4:16 4-5, and 1922, 4:17.

In addition to these sterling performances the chesty little tr.-color club flyer holds the world's indoor record for the mile of 4:14 2-5, which he established in 1919 at Chicago. This evidently was his best year, as it was during 1919 that he ran two other mile races in 4:14 2-5. One of these that races was run in the national mile of that year and the other was made a fortnight before the championships in Canada.

At the Yankee Stadium on Memorial Day Ray was timed in 4:16 3-5 for the mile, but on that occasion he was defeated by Walter Higgins of Columbia, who had a twenty-five-yard handicap. Twice since then Ray has tried to eclipse Norman Taber's record of 4:12 3-5, which has remained on the record books undisturbed since 1915, but each time he failed. Many of the athletic experts are of the opinion that Ray has a better chance of breaking the world's record in a regularly scheduled race than in a specially arranged handicap affair.

Ray has always run his best races out in front, and he is now priming himself for the national one-mile championship, which he hopes to win for the eighth time, and then he will return here for "the record mile" at the pre-Olympic carnival of the Wilco A. A. at the Yankee Stadium on September 5. Is is in this race that he will make the supreme effort to erase the Taber record, and the Wilco games committee has arranged to have the best mile runners in America [illegible] the mark against the [illegible] at all [illegible] unlikely that Ray Watson, who will be one of the starters in this race, may beat Ray and break the record himself.

Watson has made the statement several times that he believes under proper conditions he can break the world's record. He has been showing fine improvement at the mile in the past year. Less than a month ago he ran the eight furlongs under 4:16 and with Ray Baker, Jimmy Connolly, Walter Higgins and possibly Eddie Kirby of the Newark A. C., the interscholastic one-mile champion, in the running, it would not be at all surprising if more than one of these stars get under the record.

LEIGHTON'S BOOK TO BE READY SOON

Latonia, Oct. 6.—Robert F. Leighton, general manager of the Tanforan track, will begin compiling his first program book of eight days for the twenty-five days meeting to be held at Tanforan, beginning November 5.

UNDINE CLUB WILL DEVELOP OARSMEN

The Undine Barge Club of Philadelphia, national senior champions in eight-oared rowing, as well as the Pennsylvanian Barge Club of the same city, plan to develop eight-oared crews for the Olympic regatta trials next year.

HORSEMEN WILL RAISE $10,000

A Thanksgiving fund of $10,000 for Kentucky orphanages has been started and will be subscribed to by horsemen exclusively. The fund is in charge of Moses Crossman, agent for E. R. Bradley.

Has Another Beck

Wichita has still another beck on its roster. He is a young pitcher picked up from independent ranks around Wichita.

ROSS YOUNG KEPT GIANTS IN FIGHT

New York, Oct. 6.—When credit for the winning of the National League pennant by the Giants is being distributed a large share of it should be bestowed upon Ross Young of San Antonio, Tex. and Right Field, Polo Grounds.

It is safe to say, after close observation of the work of the Giants, that no other player on the team had more to do with the Giants' ultimate success in the defense of their title as league champions than Young.

The sturdy right fielder is the ideal ball player, agile of hand and brain and endowed with an unwavering fighting spirit and an inexhaustible supply of courage.

He reflects the attitude of the now almost extinct school of players to whom every ball game was a fight. Young plays baseball as he played football and other games when he was a student at West Texas Military Academy—to the limit of his skill and endurance.

He wants to win all the time, and though he accepts defeat generally enough when it comes to him he fights relentlessly to stave it off as long as possible.

Young was perhaps the sole member of the Giant team who did not [illegible] [illegible] when the array was far out in front of the rest of the pack at odd times this season.

At such times the team in general was prone to loaf, being too sure of itself to exert a great deal of effort to win games that didn't seem to count for much.

Young, however, never stopped hustling. He fielded his position, hit the ball, ran the bases and generally conducted himself day after day as though upon each day hung the swinging of the pennant either to New York or to a hostile town.

He ran into a few batting slumps along the line, but these didn't discourage him, as they discourage most players. He just hustled a little bit more and finally hustled his way out of the slumps.

It is expected that in the World Series Young will be as much of an aid to the team as he was in the series of 1921 and 1922, which is saying a great deal. As a "money player" Young has no superior, either in the National League or in American, which is to say that he is at his best when victory means most to his team. Stubborn opposition by the enemy and the shouts of an aroused multitude serve to put him on edge. He hit .275 in the series last year and it will be remembered that in the final game Joe Bush was ordered to pass him in the course of the eighth inning rally that won for the Giants and clinched the world title.

Like the rest of the Giants, Young is confident of another victory over the Yankees in the big series.

"Jack Dempsey turned the tide for us," said Young with a grin as he discussed the coming conflict. "You know, the Polo Grounds was becoming a tough spot for champions before Jack split a Pipp, Ruhlane, Wilde, Criqui and Wilson all had lost their titles there, and it began to look bad for Jack and the Giants, but when Jack came through it convinced me that we could do the same. He made the Polo [illegible] safe for champions."

STARS PERFORM AT A. L. MEET

San Francisco, Oct. 6.—When 150,000 members of the American Legion and their guests arrive in San Francisco for their annual national convention October 15-19 they will see some of the biggest individual and team stars of sport in action.

Nearly fifty events, including many tournaments, have been arranged, aside from the strictly legion contests such as the $2,000 prize competition for delegate bands and drum corps. The sport program will embrace track and field meets, tennis, golf and rifle tournaments, and every popular outdoor American sport.

Charlie Paddock, the "human flash," will defend his sprint laurels in the 440-dash, Tuesday, October 16, against such men as Morris Kersey, Stanford University, and teammates.

Jole Ray, American long distance runner, will attempt to regain his record beaten by an athlete of Sweden who clipped two seconds off his time for a mile.

On the same afternoon there will be golf and tennis tournament, with cups and medals, the latter in charge of "Little Bill" Johnston, California's own winner of the Wimbledon tournament and runner up for the national tennis championship this year. Bowling and swimming will have separate attention.

A number of former ring champions will be seen in action on Hurh Jinks night, Tuesday evening, October 16, when a boxing and wrestling smoker will be given the delegates. Willie Ritchie, former world's lightweight champion, has consented to appear, as a preliminary to re-entering the field for a meeting with Benny Leonard, present title holder.

Ritchies was a friend to thousands of men who received their wartime training at Camp Lewis, Washington, and is still in touch with many of them.

Another former champion who has offered his service to the convention is Jimmie Britt, who was defeated many years ago by Battling Nelson. Britt is now a prosperous business man of San Francisco.

The principal event on the baseball program will be a game between the winning team of the Pacific Coast League and an all-Legion team composed of such stars as Dutch Ruether, Harry Heilmann, the slugging Tiger; Jimmie Caveney, Bom Scheer and Willie Kamm.

More than fifty army, navy and civilian fliers of national repute have entered in the airplane and glider contest to be staged at Crissey Field, on the army military reservation, during the convention. It is likely also that a new type of army tank, smaller and more efficient than any heretofore devised, will be tested before the public.

Besides having an opportunity to see the University of California football team in practice on Thursday, October 18, the guests will be treated to a gridiron game between the all-Pacific fleet and a star army aggregation. This event is scheduled for [illegible]

HERB TREAT, INELIGIBLE, REFUSES TO QUIT TIGERS

Someville Boy Hailed as the Leading Tackle Last Year Takes Drubbing With Scrubs to Aid aVrsity.

By EDDIE HURLEY

There's a pitiful figure these days within the confines of the huge Palmer Stadium at Princeton, N. J. He wears the dirty black jersey of the scrubs, and if the casual observer was allowed to peek at the secret practice sessions of the Tigers, he might scoot off with the impression that Coach Bill Roper, Princeton gridiron mentor, was playing favorites.

It would make a football fanatic's heart beat with joy to watch this lowly scrub in action.

Yet when the average Princeton man watches him, there is no cause for joy. In fact every time Coach Roper or any of the lesser coaches, for that matter, lend a watchful eye, it's gloom rather than joy that comes uppermost in their thoughts.

Tearing away from his place in line, the head covered scrub simply smears every play aimed at him. In fact until he leaves his place in the forward line, these Princeton Tigers, who are fondly carressing a hope of another football championship, are almost helpless.

CAN'T MAKE TEAM.

Yet this scrub hasn't a chance to "make" the varsity.

His efforts are all in vain as far as personal glory is concerned.

He is now fighting an unselfish battle for "Old Nassau."

It's an interesting story, the story of this unheard scrub, who brings tears to the eyes of every Princeton man, when they see him in action and mourn his absence from the varsity line. It's the story of an unselfish athlete who his giving his all, simply in hopes that Princeton once again may wave on high as far as the gridiron is concerned.

A couple of days before the opening game of the season between Princeton and Johns Hopkins which was played yesterday, a wandering football enthusiast strayed within the holy confines of the Palmer Stadium.

Nobody seemed to know how he slipped by the gate. Yet there he was all eyes. The work of the big black jerseyed scrub immediately attracted his attention.

"Who's that bird? I mean the scrub, who seems to be stopping every play", questioned the stranger. He was addressing a Princeton man but his reply was silence.

Princeton men do not like to talk about their wizard scrub.

Continual questioning however finally bore fruit and the stranger almost blushed with shame at his [illegible] ignorance.

"Oh, yes, so that's Herb Treat, eh!"

ONLY HERB TREAT.

And it's no other than Herb Treat, the greatest tackle on the college gridiron of 1922 who is wearing a badly battered black jersey denoting the "scrubs" and taking the knocks and cuffs of the varsity, with no glory and with no opportunity of hearing his name lauded as is generally the hope of the most significant of all scrubs in big college football.

He's helping Princeton to the best of his ability.

He has been declared ineligible and robbed of an opportunity to captain a Princeton team through a trick of fate. But in spite of the frowns of Lady Luck, Treat is serving the hero's part and never misses lining up with the scrubs for the daily battering at the hands of the varsity.

And Treat is the greatest lineman at Princeton today. That's why Princeton men weep when they think of him.

The story of Treat's ineligibility is interesting, but no more so than the true football spirit he is exhibiting in playing daily with the scrubs, when he knows more football and plays the game a great deal better than the present forwards, who are wearing the varsity colors.

Treat was the Princeton 1922 gridiron hero. In the two biggest games of the year, those with Harvard and Yale, it was Treat who rescued the Tigers from destruction.

At the Harvard Stadium last year early in the game George Owens had kicked a field goal following a fumble by Dana Wingate, the Princeton quarter.

And Harvard seemed on her way to score again when luck played a big factor in the game. Erwin Ghirke had received the ball in midfield and was off on a long run.

Then came the inexplainable. He fumbled. And the ever alert Treat faced his big opportunity. He might have scooped up the ball and beat it for the goal line. But he didn't. He played it safe and fell on it. It saved the day for the Tigers.

THEN BEAT YALE.

Then the Tigers uncovered the best play of their attack. It was an old-fashioned criss-cross which carried the ball to the two-yard line and on the next play Cal Crum took it over for a touchdown. Later Baker got over a drop kick and the final score was 16-3, but Princeton men gave Treat the lion's share of the honor.

In the Yale game, too, Treat was the big noise. It will be remembered that Yale ran all over the field, but couldn't score. The Tigers got over a lone field goal. It proved sufficient.

Early in the game Yale had the ball on Princeton's one-yard line on fourth down. It was the crucial play of the game. The ball was given to Jordan and the play directed at the centre of the line.

But it was Treat who reached over those mighty arms and smeared the play and thus saved the Tigers from defeat.

Treat can't play any more varsity football. Perhaps it's true that he has been a tramp athlete. But there is honor everywhere it seems. Treat played at Princeton and Boston College, but before he dazzled his fellow students at either of these institutions he was at Holy Cross.

PLAYED TWO MINUTES.

And during a Holy Cross-West Point game a few years ago Treat, who was a sub, was rushed into play no more than two minutes. This is the play that is keeping him on the scrubs this year. It has been ruled that he is ineligible to compete this year as he has played three years of varsity football.

Like Mike and other athletes, Herb Treat of Somerville, who'll never be forgotten at Princeton, is heroically toiling and taking the worst of it with the scrubs, just so Princeton's football honor and glory will be preserved for another year at least.

Geers Is Helped By Track Rival

Harry Fleming, trainer for the Hillandale Farm of New York, displayed a pretty bit of sentiment this season on the Narragansett turf when he turned over to "Pop" Geers' Needs, the great trotting mare.

Geers had a long list of engagements at State and country fairs with the pacing gelding Sanardo but the horse pulled up lame and he was without an exhibition performer

Fleming's generosity kept the "Grand Old Man" in the sulky.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES CLOSE AT LEXINGTON, KY., THURSDAY

BIG LINE HORSES HAVE BEEN IN THE LIMELIGHT

Single G., the Indianapolis Pacer, Established a New World Mark for the Mile, While Other Horses Set Fine Marks During Season

By S. J. MAHONEY

The "melancholy days" are fast approaching for the horsemen. A few more weeks and the various circuits and fairs will have run the gamut, and light harness campaigning will be a matter of history.

At the conclusion of the final event at Lexington, Ky., next Thursday, the curtain will drop on Grand Circuit racing for 1923.

The campaign has been one of the most interesting in the history of the organization. Some fine young horses were seen on the circuit, and the time made by them was remarkable.

Single G., the greatest pacer of all time, established a new record for the mile, and Peter Manning smashed several track marks. He lowered his own record at the Readville track in this city before one of the largest crowds that ever saw a horse race in the Bay State.

While the big stakes were all distributed last week, yet there are some alluring stakes for the horsemen to send their equines after in the last four days of the series.

NEW ENGLAND TRI SERIES.

When the Brockton Fair closed yesterday, the Golden Anniversary was marked by a series of races hard to duplicate.

Purses aggregating $40,000 went to the winners and horses that placed.

There were some large fields and the make-up of the program was a genuine surprise to horsemen and also devotees of the sport.

It was of international character, all of which indicated the popularity of the Brockton Fair and the confidence horsemen have in its directors.

Horses were there from all parts of the U. S. A., and Canada had a goodly representation.

Credit certainly reflects on Ralph Millet, who handled the entries and made other arrangements for the racing series.

It also marked the finish of the New England Tri-State racing circuit, which was productive of some wonderful racing since the campaign was launched at Bangor, Me., Aug. 20.

More than $100,000 was distributed among the winning horsemen in the eight towns that composed the circuit.

N. E. A. F. A. THROUGH.

Members of the N. E. Agricultural Fairs Association Circuit will finish their series this week at Stafford Springs, Conn. The season has been a most successful one, and reports from Norwich, Burlington, White River Junction, Greenfield, Sturbridge, Rockville, Brattleboro, Great Barrington and Northampton indicate that the racing never was better.

Thousands will go from Springfield, Chicopee, Worcester, Palmer, Webster, Southbridge and other nearby places to Stafford Springs for the three-day racing series there, for this fair is considered the best in that section of the country.

LEWISTON IN THE SWIM.

Columbus Day will be one long remembered in Lewiston, Me. This year in other parts of the Pine Tree State they have had some great racing events, but now that Bangor started something, Lewiston intends to finish it, and finish it strong.

The sports of Lewiston and Auburn always have put things over in a big way, and the series of racing events for Columbus Day, weather permitting, will go over in the same way.

They have, at a tremendous expense, booked a race in which Single G., Margaret Dillon and Sir Roche will appear. These are the three fastest pacers in the country to-day.

Then there is a race in which the "Down East" wonders, John R. Braden, Jackson Grattan, Dan Hedgewood and Roy Grattan will feature. All of Maine is interested in the Grattans and Braden, and there will be some crowd there to see the Five-forall in which these horses are slated to start.

SIR ROCHE ERASES IT

Just when Maine folks were in a happy frame of mind because John R. Braden and his sire, John R. Gentry, held the Maine track records, along came Sir Roche and obliterated the mark made by John R. Braden at Gorham on a half-mile track. That leaves the sire with the mile record.

Back in 1896 there was a track on the outskirts of Portland that was known as Riggy Park. It had some track and some real racing was seen there.

John R. Gentry went around the oval that was close to the Boston & Maine Railroad in 2.01½, and it looks as if that record will stand until Maine has another mile track.

Margaret Dillon was the first horse to wipe out that mark made by the Braden horse at Gorham. This was 2.04¾. In the first heat at Bangor, before 5,000 spectators, Margaret Dillon moved around in the fast time of 2.04¾. It didn't stand long, however, for Sir Roche in the second heat beat out Margaret and Single G. and now the State record is 2.04¾.

The drivers of each will try to establish a new mark at Lewiston, and the Maine horses and Dan Hedgewood will be sent after a better mark.

EXHIBITION FOR SINGLE G.

The race at Brockton did not come up to expectations, for Single G. had a romp. Margaret Dillon was out of it. She was sent to Northampton to meet Sir Roche in a special race Thursday at the Three County Fair.

Then a large number of the horses entered were withdrawn, and the event at the Shoe City, which so many looked forward to, was nothing more than an exhibition.

That grand 14-year old stallion, Single G., by Anderson Wilkes, showed his heels to the entire field in each of the three heats.

All the other three horses, Col. Sidwell, Mary O'Connor and Jimmy McKerron, were fighting for was a division of what was left of the $30th stake.

Immediately after the race at Brockton Single G. was shifted to Combination Park, Medford, so that Ed Allen could take advantage of the better transportation facilities when he decided to move "down East."

Single G. probably will start for Lewiston, Me. this evening.

From Lewiston Single G. will be taken to Presque Isle, where he will meet John R. Braden in a special event.

The Woonsocket, R. I. Fair also is on the card this week. There will be a three-day series in the old town.

The Lowell Driving Club announces a series of races for Columbus Day. The track is at Golden Cove Park, Lowell.

Another circuit will see the curtain drop this week. The Central Fair will go out of business with the series at Hagerstown, Md.

Two fairs are booked for Maine. One is at Topsham and the other is slated for Leeds Center.

Matinee events will be in order now until snow flies. Then most of the horses will be sent to winter quarters.

Paul Bowser is back in town. He will tarry at Medford as he did last winter and work his horses out at Combination Park.

Payment on weanlings is due Nov. 1. Those who do it will keep the foals of 1923 in good standing for the American Horse Breeder Futurity.

"The Ultimate" made a wonderful record on the Bay State Circuit and at some of the meetings on the Fairs circuit this year.

The two horses owned by the late Bert Gove are for sale. Information concerning them may be had at the Metropolitan Driving Club, this city.

SWIMMERS SET UP NINE NEW MARKS

Nine national records were broken in the annual swimming championships of France, recently held at Arras. The meet attracted a larger entry this year than has been known for several seasons, and the performances in almost every event were of such high calibre that the Olympic prospects of France have been considerably brightened. Not many weeks ago the leading sports writers of the French capital were wailing that France had suffered a severe set-back in aquatic sports and that the country's Olympic prospects were far more drab than they had been at any time in the history of the sport in France.

GREAT PACERS AT LEWISTON FRIDAY

Lewiston, Me., Oct. 6.—Single G., Sir Roch and Margaret Dillon, will meet Oct. 12, on the local half mile track. They have been booked to race at the Maine State Fair grounds Columbus day. John R. Braden, Roy Grattan, Jackson Grattan and Dan Hedgewood, the Aroostook free-for-all kings, also will race.

BEST IN NATIONAL

Cy Williams, of the Phillies, whose home run hitting made him the pride of the senior league.

GREEN TEAM BEATS MAINE

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 6.—It was a different Green eleven compared with a week ago that took Maine into camp here today, 6 to 0, but even with the decided increase of power, and a flock of backfield substitutions, Dartmouth could not penetrate the opposing line for consistent gains after the first half. Hall playing regular right halfback after his shift from quarter uncovered plenty of speed, and with Calder brought the ball down to Maine's 26-yard line by the end of the first quarter.

A penalty for offside gave Dartmouth a five-yard advantage to open the second period. Hall and a pass from Dooley to Watkins landing the pigskin four yards from the goal before made three through right tackle, and Dooley carried it over.

BOLLES FAILS.

Bolles failed to kick the goal. Calder and Hawes rushed the ball 27 yards on the next five minutes, following Maine's futile attempt to break through, but penalties forced Loomis to kick. Fraser broke through and brought the ball down on Dartmouth's 45-yard line. The pigskin came into Green possession three yards further down the field after Small attempted four passes in a row. Hawes again let loose, covering 36 yards in two plays only to be set back 15 yards for holding. The half ended with the spheres on Maine's 13-yard line.

The third quarter showed Dartmouth offensive lacking, and made but one first down. Fumbles and costly penalties for holding forced Calder to punt, in the middle of the fourth period, where the ball rested on the four yard line.

Jim Blair finally punted out of danger. Maine lost her final chance to score on an intercepted forward attempting three forwards in a row. Just before the final whistle Calder caught his own blocked punt from the 44 yard line.

The summary:

NEW RECORD FOR AMATEUR BOXERS

A new record for entries in the amateur boxing tournament of the St. Joseph T. A. S. is expected to be set up at the big show which will be held at Commercial Hall, Howdoin square, next Wednesday night.

At the last tournament of the organization, which is still the topic of conversation among the followers of the simon pures, there were 45 entries in the various classes. Now it is expected the entry list for this Wednesday's bouts will overshadow this record.

The two novice classes, 118 and 135 pounds, which made such a hit with the fans at the last tournament, was put right back at the request of the fans for this show. The other three classes are 108 pounds, 128 pounds and 147 pounds.

Entries can be made with Secretary Frank Hannon, No. 95 Cambridge street. On account of the fact that all the amateur bouts will count in the records for the final selections of the team which will represent U. S. in the Olympic games, the boys are showing more interest than ever in the bouts.

ARMY WILL NOT ADOPT NEW RULE

New York, Oct. 6.—There is no sign, so far as can be observed, that West Point is to follow the Navy's lead and adopt a one-year rule for the cadets. The West Point officials apparently see no necessity or occasion for such a rule, even though their men are no longer on the same athletic footing with the midshipmen. Coming right down to brass tacks, any advantage this may give the Army in football and other inter-academy contests is very little.

Last year, on the four Army teams that played and defeated the Navy —football, baseball, basketball and track—there was but one plebe. One plebe, if sufficiently a crackerjack, could make a large difference in the strength of whatever team he happened to represent; but cases of that sort are infrequent. There have been crackerjacks in a football way who have gone to West Point, only to find they couldn't make the grade in West Point football and at all times they have to make the scholarship grade. West Point had its Daly and its Oliphant, but every good football player who has gone there from some college hasn't proved a find for the Army team by any means.

Unassisted Triple Play by Braves' Kid Infielder

An unassisted triple play by a rookie infielder, who may never again be heard of in baseball, was turned in at Braves Field yesterday in the farewell game of the season.

It was the second unassisted triple killing of the season in Boston, the first having been made by George Burns of the Red Sox and only the sixth on record in the history of big league baseball.

Ernie Padgett, a Philadelphia boy, who has been farmed out to the Memphis club of the Southern League, made the brilliant play.

It was in the fourth inning of the second game. Cliff Lee was on first and "Cotton" Tierney was on second. Wally Holke was the batter with none out.

Holke drove a sizzling liner to Padgett near second. The kid infielder stepped on second, nailing Tierney, and then chased Lee back toward first, finally tagging him and completing a play that hundreds of big leaguers have aspired to make in years of baseball.

HARD SCHEDULE FOR ILLINOIS

Illinois has a difficult schedule this season. Illinois opens the season today with Fred Dawson's cornhuskers from Nebraska and on the following Saturday they meet Pat Page's fighting tribe from Butler College. In 1922, Butler beat Illinois by a score of 10 to 7. Iowa, Mississippi A. and M. and Ohio Northwestern, Chicago, Wisconsin, State follow in quick order.

Darrough Failure

Last year, coming up from Texas Clarence Darrough was quite a factor in such success as Omaha had. This year he was a failure.

MANCHESTER HIGH BEATS SAUGUS, 34-0

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 6.—The Manchester High School football team easily defeated Saugus, Mass., High at Textile Field today, 34 to 0. Saugus was no match for their opponents and the local first team romped through the Bay Staters at will.

Penalties and ragged playing by the Manchester substitutes enabled the Massachusetts eleven to hold the Queen City boys fairly even in the second half.

Hosek, Captain Murphy and Gustafson starred for the Manchesterites. Saugus made but one first down. Score, Manchester 34, Saugus 0. Touchdowns by Gustafson, O'Malley, J. Murphy and G. Murphy. Goals from touchdown, Hosek 2, J. Murphy.

CORNELL IS AFTER CHICAGO SPRINTER

Chicago, Sept 15.—Chicago and Cornell are waiting to receive Geno Goodwille, C. A. A. sprinter, who is regarded as the finest scholastic sprint man in years. Goodwille, who was graduated last June from University High, has not announced his future plans, but fortunate university will be certain of several points in track meets through Goodwille's work in the dashes.

200 BALL TEAMS IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

The National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues is represented by 200 baseball teams in twenty-five leagues in all parts of the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Williams Deserts Homerun Battle

The honor of winning the homerun championship doesn't mean a thing in the life of "Cy" Williams, leading slugger of the Phillies.

Williams with his total of 41 homers did not play in yesterday's doubleheader at Braves Field and if he wins the slugging title from Babe Ruth, he can thank Lady Luck as well as anything else.

Williams wasn't on hand to thrill the fans yesterday and it was learned that Manager Arthur Fletcher allowed the big slugger to send his way to Athletons for the start of the annual "little world's series" there.

Soft money in Attleboro appealed to Williams more than making an effort to run up his homerun string.

YALE FEARING TICKET SCANDAL

New Haven, Oct. 6.—Worry over tickets for the Princeton game, which will be Yale's big at-home contest, has already cropped out. University undergraduate and graduate publications today gave much attention to the new conditions under which tickets are to be issued, repeating, with amplification, the description of the arrangements formulated last Spring to solve if possible the ticket wrangling.

One application will be mailed next week to each graduate or ex-member of the university who is entitled to apply for seats to each of the Army, Princeton and Harvard games. The point in this instance is that only one application blank will be available for each game. No extra blank is to be had, and the single one for each game will be mailed to the permanent or last known address of the Yale man with his name and address typed on it.

That is the only blank he will have. The police says that if not received within a reasonable time it will be up to the Yale man to write and ask for one. Then on this blank will be the place for his signature of a definite statement that one of the seats applied for will be used by him personally, and if he cannot do this he is to return the tickets.

TRAINERS RECEIVE JOCKEY CLUB CARDS

New York, Oct. 6.—At a recent meeting of the stewards of the Jockey Club, the following trainers were granted licenses: D. C. Beatty, Joseph Henry Buscher, W. Constantine, James Evans, C. Garrigan, Art Goldblatt, M. Goldblatt, J. Harney, Paul A. Healy, John T. Ousey, Roger R. Sorrell, H. Stickney, B. Walters, Willie Weathers. The application of William J. Hersh for a trainer's license was laid on the table at Hagerstown.

BOB KINSELLA HAS BIG YEAR IN THREE-I

If Scout Tuck Kinsella of the New York Giants were to pick the best looking outfielder in the Three-I League this season, he hardly could overlook his own son, Bob, who has had a big year with Bloomington, but the boy has had several trails in higher company and that probably would make a manager above Class A or B a bit doubtful.

CANADA OUT OF LUCK FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

Earl Thomson, the Great Hurdler, Is Out Because of Ineligibility, and Barring of the 56-Pound Weight Also in Handicap

By JOHN H. CLAUSEN.

Canada is out of luck! Its point winners in the 1920 Olympic games will not have the opportunity to repeat at Paris next year, because of the ineligibility of Earl J. Thomson, the great hurdler, and also because of the removal of the 56-pound weight from the program of events.

Thomson won the high hurdle race for the Dominion at Antwerp and scored seven points. McDiarmid won fourth place in the weight contest scoring three points.

Canada will have to start all over again, but that does not mean that it will not be well represented at Paris. There are several fine sprinters in Toronto and the country has always been well off in weight throwers.

It can hardly be expected that she will produce another hurdler like Thomson, but there are many other events to choose from and the Dominion has been famous for its wonder athletes in the past.

Who does not remember Robert Kerr, the great Hamilton sprinter, and G. H. Goulding, the walker?

Famous names come quickly to mind when track sports are mentioned. Canada boasted of many fine shot putters like George R. Gray, D. W. McPherson, Gideon Perrin and the wonderful Currie.

Tom Longboat, the Indian runner; Ed Case, the miler; Walter Scott, the all-around athlete; Jack Watson, the jumper; Joe O'Neil, pole vaulter and high leaper, and J. J. Caffrey, twice winner of the Boston Marathon are other names well remembered.

Among the nations of the world that took part in the 1920 Olympic games Canada finished eighth and it will undoubtedly do as well next year.

SPEED IS ESSENTIAL.

All outdoor games borrow something from the track man. Baseball borrows speed, and, in this particular, it was interesting to watch some of the runners running down to first base at the last games in Fenway Park.

A stop watch is a useless thing to have at a ball game, but the desire to find out how fast Babe Ruth travels along the base lines, was a temptation that could not be resisted.

He made a single and tried to make two bases on the hit, but was put out at second in 3 1-5 seconds.

At another time he ran from twelve feet off first to third base, in exactly eight seconds.

Getting made good time for a three-base hit. Time 11 4-5 seconds. He gets started well, but does not maintain his speed after passing second.

When run to first base in 3 2-5 seconds, but he is a left-handed batter and is moving when his bat meets the ball.

A double play was made in 3 4-5 seconds and there were two attempts to base runners, records of interest. Menosky was successful in his first try, arriving safe in three seconds. His second attempt was also in the game when he was tried and he was caught in 3 2-5 seconds.

CROSS-COUNTRY BOYS OUT.

Cross-country runners are out in the fields again. Here is a sport that combines team play and individual effort and should get more encouragement from organized clubs. In many of the cross-country races which have been held around Boston the list of entries has been satisfactory, but it would be an easy matter to get twice the number of runners out for a seven-mile spin.

If the team idea is properly worked out and prizes given to teams as well as to individuals, there would be greater interest shown in the sport.

MEET ON COMMON.

Boston will have its last track meeting of the season on the morning of Columbus Day. A program which contains many running races has been arranged and should be worth seeing.

The track will be on the Common and will be eight laps to the mile. Entries close with Hugh C. McGrath on October 10.

Siki's Manager Protests Bouts

Paris, Oct. 6.—Brouillhet, one of Battling Siki's numerous managers, cabled the New York boxing authorities today to prevent the match with Kid Norfolk on the grounds that Siki had signed a contract not to box under any other management during three years. Copies of the contract, certified by French and American consular officials, were mailed simultaneously.

PICK STARTERS FOR BIG MEETS

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 6.—Starters Snyder and Hamilton have been engaged to dispatch the fields at Morlboro and Bowie during the coming meetings there this Fall. They have also been engaged to do the starting at both New Orleans tracks.

KANSAS CITY BUYS FROM FULTON CLUB

Kansas City, Oct. 6.—The Kansas City Club announces the purchase of two players from the Fulton Kitty League club. They are Melburn Simons, a right-handed outfielder, and Ed Hannan, a right-handed pitcher. They are not to report until next Spring.

Cards Buy .

The St. Louis Cardinals have purchased on behalf of the Syracuse Club a pitcher from the Grand Island club in the Nebraska State League. His name is Schuppe.
